40 Killed In Three U. S. Plane Crashes

BABY, 20 ARMY FLIERS AMONG AIR VICTIMS

Score Dead as Passenger Liner Falls In Wild Foothill Area of Kentucky.

TWO SURVIVE TRAGEDY

Nine Airmen Die In Accident In New Mexico, 11 Others In Texas Crack-up.

Forty persons including 20 army airmen and one baby have been killed in three airplane crashes in the United States in the past 24 hours.

The infant and her mother, a former airline hostess, perished along with 18 other passengers and crew members when an American Airlines ship crashed and burned last night in the wild foothills near Trammel, Ky.

Two persons, including an army lieutenant, survived this crash.

At El Paso, Tex., it was announced that two separate crashes of four-motored bombers attached to Biggs Field caused the deaths of 20 army airmen.

Nine crewmen died in the first crash early yesterday 15 miles east of Belen, N. M., when the plane apparently exploded in the air. Those killed in this accident included:

Staff Sgt. Joseph L. Moulton, Louisville Ky.; Staff Sgt. Daniel J. Relihan, Bronx, N. Y., Second Lt. Theodore W. Hattly, Pittsburgh; Second Lt. John Andryishyn, Bayonne, N. J., and Sgt. Jack C. Walker, Richland, Mich.

The second crash occurred at 7:30 p. m. last night, ten miles from Biggs Field. Of the ten crew members and two passengers, only one survived. He was Sgt. John Tachaiman, Forrest City, Pa., who was badly burned.

Biggs Field fliers killed in this crash included:

Sgt. Bernard F. Marlek, Perth Amboy, N. J.; Sgt. James F. Gould, Danbury, Conn., and Second Lieut. Cecil E. Wilson, Versailles, Ky.

The two passengers killed, both Fort Bliss officers, were First Lieuts. Herman L. Moser and James Kral. Their home addresses

1 Dead, Home Damaged In Area Storms

New London Man Crushed Under Tree; Bolt Hits Mansfield House.

One person was killed and a home was damaged by lightning by severe electrical and wind storms which dumped nearly an inch of rain on the Richland county area in the last 24 hours. Additional thunderstorms were forecast for tonight.

Mansfield escaped the full force of the storms which swept through central and southern Ohio last night and today causing flash floods that idled transportation and mine operations.

Death toll of a tropical hurricane which hit the Texas coast late Tuesday was placed at 14 persons and damage was estimated at from $8,000,000 to $11,000,000 today as communication lines were restored and belated reports came in.

William Rae, 56, of New London, was crushed to death yesterday afternoon, when a large tree was uprooted by high wind and fell on him while he was working on the Frank Butler farm north of the village.

Rae was working with a portable saw mill which he covered with a tarpaulin when he saw the storm approaching. He crawled under the cover for protection from hail which accompanied the wind.

The tree fell directly on him. Huron County Coroner F. D. Bradish said his ribs were crushed, one of the bones penetrating the heart. He died instantly.

He is survived by his widow, Myrtle, who is confined at home with an illness.

The body was removed to the Sacket funeral home in New London. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

City firemen were called to the home of James Rizer, 243 Ruth avenue, at 9:30 a. m. today when lightning struck the residence. There was no fire but the chimney and attic were severely damaged.

Telephone service at Lebanon in the Miami valley was disrupted throughout the night and numerous power failures were reported. The Lebanon area was reported to be the hardest hit. Crop damage

As Rescuers Worked to Save 6 From Mine

Thirteen-year-old George Reinstadtler's long vigil outside the F. B. Ollet mine near Bridgeville, Pa., was rewarded today when rescue crews saved his father, Henry, and five other men who had been trapped in the shaft by flood waters since yesterday. George is shown at left. At right a group of rescue workers man an 800-gallon-a-minute pump which helped keep down the water level in the pit so the trapped men could breathe.

Praises Allies, Proposes Mustering Out Pay For U. S. Fighting Men.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Reporting Italy on the ropes, Germany blackened by bombs, and Japan losing the initiative in the Pacific, President Roosevelt called on the American people and their Allies today to follow through with the knockout punch that spells "total victory."

The chief executive, reporting to the nation on the war effort abroad and at home for the first time in almost six months, told a radio audience last night that:

1—The United Nations may not take time out to gloat over the downfall of Dictator Benito Mussolini and the obvious plight of Italy, but must go on to demand unconditional surrender. Then Japan and Germany must be whipped on their home grounds.

2—The Axis leadership must eventually be hunted out and prosecuted for war guilt. No mere resignation, such as Mussolini's, may interfere with this.

All this will command increased effort at home, the president emphasized.

While current problems are mighty, he asserted, it's not too early to think of the future. Hence, he thought it was time to lay down a specific policy for taking care of the men and women of the armed forces when they return so there is no wholesale idleness or lack of attention. In this respect, Mr. Roosevelt recommended mustering out pay, unemployment insurance, vocational education and training, medical care and pensions. He included the merchant marine as part of the armed forces.

For Americans, Mr. Roosevelt

Asserts Nazi Troops Only Obstacle Now

U. S. General Says Immediate Cessation Of Hostilities Possible If Italians Quit Aiding Nazis, Free Captives; Situation In North, East Tense.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—The overthrow of Marshal Pietro Badoglio's regime as a result of his delay in asking for an armistice loomed as a possibility tonight amid indications that the Italian people may already be seeking to comply with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's terms.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—A Reuters dispatch from the Swiss frontier said today that the Italian government is now examining Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's peace conditions outlined in broadcasts to Italy. A Rome radio broadcast late this afternoon reported that the chamber of Fascist corporations had been dissolved. The broadcast also declared that some former members of the Fascist party had been rounded up in order to maintain public order.

(By Associated Press)

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower offered riot-torn Italy an immediate and honorable peace today and in a five-point program declared the only obstacle barring an end to hostilities was the presence of German troops on Italian soil.

Frontier reports said Italian and German troops were rushed today to Fiume and Trieste in northeast Italy, adjoining Nazi-occupied Yugoslavia, where Croats and Slovenes were demonstrating for separation of the Istrian peninsula from Italy.

The situation in other eastern sections of the kingdom was described as tense.

Dispatches from Madrid said Italian troops were trying to block the entry of Nazi reinforcements in northern Italy, but there was no indication they were succeeding.

Madrid heard that Italian regular troops, aided by civilians and railwaymen turned saboteurs, were locked in violent fighting with Nazi forces north of Milan and Turin after Hitler was said to have rushed 10 divisions—possibly up to 150,000 troops—from France to guard the Po river defense line.

In a broadcast message, General Eisenhower stressed these points to the war-weary Italians:

1. Only the Germans in Italy are blocking peace.

2. Cessation of hostilities is possible immediately under honorable terms.

3. Discontinuance of assistance by the Italians to German armed forces is a prerequisite of peace.

4. Italian war prisoners will be returned if Allied prisoners in Italian hands are returned safely and not sent to Germany.

5. The liberties and traditions of Italy will be restored.

Eisenhower also pledged that Allied occupation of Italy would be "mild and beneficent" as in Sicily.

Swiss-Italian frontier reports said that despite all denials to the contrary, discussions were continuing in Vatican City looking toward an armistice.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, the new Italian premier, was said to be hoping to arrive at terms which would not involve occupation of the Italian mainland.

London reported there were indications Marshal Badoglio was seeking to get German troops out of southern Italy and Italian forces back from the Balkans before appealing to the Allies for an armistice.

NO DECISION ON CITY PAY HIKE

Council Holds Caucus But Fails To Reach Accord on Wage Boost Plan.

City council in a caucus session last night again took up city employes' request for a $35 monthly pay boost, but the question was no nearer settlement today than when it was first taken before council a month ago, C. N. Shultz, council spokesman, said.

The councilmen are scheduled to meet in another off-the-record session tonight to study a plan for financing the purchase of 1,000 acres of land needed for the airport expansion project.

Tonight's meeting is primarily for the council finance committee, headed by Russell Porch, but other members of council, Mayor W. J. Locke, and City Auditor Paul L. Kelley have been invited Porch said.

"Everybody had an idea about how the salary increase request can be handled, but we were unable to agree on a plan," Shultz said after the meeting last night.

Council is spending a great deal of time on the salary boost question because of the heavy demands that will be placed on the city's general fund by the airport program, members said.

Rescue 6 Miners Trapped 36 Hours By Flood Waters

PITTSBURGH — (UP) — Rescue workers, wading through murky, muddy water in the dark recesses of the flooded Ollett mine, today brought six trapped miners to safety after they had been entombed for 38 hours.

"Where have you fellows been?" was the first question asked by the six miners as they were brought to the surface. They said they had heard the feverish attempts to save them and knew if they "hung on" they would be rescued.

Flood waters poured into the tipple yesterday and filled the mine tunnel to a depth of nine feet. Only one foot of the 10-foot tunnel was free of water, permitting the trapped men to receive the life-giving air that has been forced into the pit by huge fans.

STAMP SALE OFF TO GOOD START

Mansfielders Quick to Respond To Shangri-La Days; Dollar Days Begin Tomorrow.

Mansfielders were doing their share in helping the Shangri-La War Stamp Buying Days get off to a flying start this morning in spite of the downpour of rain.

W. L. Faulkner, general chairman of the Shangri-La Days, said that shoppers seemed anxious to puchase their dollar's worth of stamps as their part in the drive.

Shangri-La Days are being promoted all over the United States. Retailers are to sell $1 worth of war stamps to every citizen. A new airplane carrier called the Shangri-La will be purchased with the funds raised from the sale of stamps.

The Retail Merchants association is sponsoring the drive in Mansfield. Its quota is $40,000 in war stamps. Each store has been given a quota according to the number of employes.

In connection with the Shangri-La War Stamp Sales merchants are having their annual Dollar Days on Friday and Saturday. Special merchandise values are being offered during the two days.

HUNT GOES ON

Soldier Sought In Desert, Thirst Victims Named.

CAMP YOUNG, Cal. — (INS) — While army troops searched the desolate southern California-Arizona desert today for a missing soldier, the names of three other soldiers who perished of thirst over the week-end were announced by headquarters of the Camp Young desert training center.

The soldiers, who died after becoming lost in the trackless Chocolate mountain area west of El Centro, Cal., were identified as: Corp. Julius Ortega, New York City; Sergt. Robert J. Powers, Trenton, N. J., and Pvt. Charles Henry Nash, Atlanta, Ga.

The victims were members of a platoon which became isolated from other units during maneuvers. Running out of water, their plight was aggravated by temperatures which ranged to 130 degrees.

Thirty-four other soldiers were rescued.

CRISIS: Bulgarian Break With Axis Looms If Italy Gives Up

(By Associated Press)

ISTANBUL—A serious Bulgarian crisis appears to be developing as a result of Benito Mussolini's downfall and there are indications Bulgaria may be the first Balkan satellite to break away from the Axis if Italy surrenders.

Bulgaria's position, and that of the other Balkan powers to a lesser extent, is reported to have changed rapidly since the Italian upheaval. An immediate collapse of Germany's junior partners had been considered only a remote possibility before this week.

Direct news from the Balkans since Mussolini's resignation indicates clearly that the people there believe Italy is finished.

Bulgaria, one of Germany's most favored lesser allies, now holds all of Yugoslav Macedonia and part of Grecian Macedonia, and an Italian collapse would affect her quicker and more directly than any other of the southeastern European nations in the German camp.

The Bulgarians have always regarded Italy as their main barrier against invasion. It is only about 100 miles from Brindisi in Italy's heel to Bulgaria's frontiers in Macedonia, and only about 300 miles to Sofia.

Official Bulgarian propaganda has repeatedly assured the people that Italy was capable of resisting any invasion aimed at her mainland, and Allied successes in Sicily, together with the overthrow of the fascist regime, are viewed here as a great shock to Bulgarian morale.

Other hints of Bulgarian difficulties have been dropped by officials here on government business. They are said to have indicated their belief the Bulgarian government is in "serious trouble."

Another recent traveler predicted flatly that a general uprising would follow an Italian collapse.

ODT to Present Merger Plan to City Taxi Firms

A plan to "merge" Mansfield's five taxi companies for the duration of the war to enable them to get sufficient gasoline and tires to operate will be offered to company owners by the Office of Defense Transportation at a meeting at 1 p. m. Friday at the city building.

Faced with the prospect of a further cut in their gasoline allocation, the Mansfield operators were told by the ODT that they would have to work out a plan to enable them to haul more passengers with fewer trips.

The ODT proposed the merger plan which would bring all the city's taxis into a central headquarters, making it easier to pick up a number of passengers in the same part of the city with one trip.

Tass Says Von Brauchitsch Confined By Nazis.

LONDON—(AP)—Reuters said a Tass dispatch received in Stockholm today reported Field Marshal General Walter Von Brauchitsch, former commander-in-chief of the German army, had been confined in a fortress by the Nazi government.

Von Brauchitsch frequently has been reported at odds with Hitler.

MEETS MONDAY

Budget Commission To Start Study of Fund Requests.

The Richland county budget commission will begin the study of 1940 budget requests from the county subdivisions when it meets Monday at the courthouse.

Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, chairman of the commission said today all but four of the 41 requests due from the subdivisions have been filed.

Wolfe with Treasurer Charles Payne and Prosecutor John C. O'Donnell, other members of the commission, will continue the consideration of budget requests throughout the month of August, he said.

CHARGES OHIO 'OUT OF STEP'

Judge Says State's Behind on Care of Defectives.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Ohio is "socially out of step" in providing for its mental and physical defectives, says Probate Judge Harry A. Albright of Belmont county, who has been hearing juvenile court cases here the past five weeks.

He declared Ohio's attitude toward care of feeble-minded was similar to that of Arkansas, Alabama and Mississippi, and urged expenditure of at least $50,000,000 after the war to build and equip adequate institutions for mental and physical charges.

Mrs. FDR Opposes Mixed Race Marriages.

HYDE PARK, N. Y. —(U.P.)— Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today in her daily newspaper column that she is opposed to mixed marriages.

"It seems to me that in the mixing of racial strains," she wrote, "the difficulties which always exist in any marriage are greatly enhanced. Races will mix, however. Even in this country, we see the evidences of this mixture."

YOU WILL GET LESS BUTTER

WFA Announces Cut In Fat Allotments.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The War Food Administration announced today an allocation of edible fats and vegetable oils under which civilians would get about 5 pounds or 10 per cent less on a per capita basis during the 12 month-period ending next June 30 than they consumed in 1942.

Included in the allocation were butter, lard, shortening, and margarine. All are rationed.

The food agency said the per capita supply of these foods was expected to be about 44 pounds.

WMC Sees Labor Shortage In Mansfield Within Six Months

In its monthly revision of labor marketing areas the War Manpower Commission today announced the reclassification of Mansfield from the group III area to the group II area.

This means that Mansfield, formerly classed with those cities in which labor shortages might occur after the next six months, is now included with those areas where labor stringencies exist and where a shortage is anticipated within six months.

The commission's classifications are arrived at through the figures of the Mansfield office of the National Employment agency and Mansfield employment clerks said today that there are already "shortages in some spots."

The Youngstown-Warren-Sharon area was also placed in the "group two" list with Mansfield. According to the definitions of these areas by the WMC, current war contracts may be renewed if no additional workers would be required, but there will be no new contracts if alternative facilities are available elsewhere.

At the same time, the WMC removed the Dayton - Springfield area from the "acute labor shortage" classification and added nine cities and the territory of Hawaii to the "group one" list—areas of acute labor shortage. This action virtually cuts off the ten new labor shortage areas from further war contracts and raises the strong possibility they will be put on the 48-hour week.

PLAN INQUIRY

Commissioners To Ask U. S. About NYA Camp.

Richland county commissioners indicated today that they would contact the U. S. treasury department to inquire as to whether the land and buildings near Mifflin formerly occupied by the N.Y.A. camp would be available for a tuberculosis sanatorium.

Guy Stewart, chairman said the board was considering the camp as a site for a new sanatorium. If the land and buildings are available, he said, commissioners will investigate the facilities.

Meanwhile in Washington today federal officials considered a request by State Education Director Kenneth M. Ray to turn over approximately $1,200,000 worth of vocational training equipment owned by the N.Y.A. to Ohio school systems.

CANTON —(AP)— Mrs. Herman R. Witter, wife of Canton's former mayor, is dead at 63.

Mansfield Stores Waive Coupons on Coffee Purchases

Unrationed coffee was being sold from Mansfield stores today and in most instances grocers reported sufficient supplies on hand to meet the demand. None of them reported a pronounced buying rush.

The end of coffee rationing — approximately seven months after it started—was announced last night by President Roosevelt in his address to the nation. He added that "We also expect that within a short time we shall get greatly increased allowances of sugar."

He termed the developments a tangible result of vast increases in available shipping space and greater successes in the war against U-boats.

COUSIN HAPPY

American's Glad Mussolini's Out Of a Job.

WARREN—(U.P.)—Dominic Mussolini is "glad as any American can be" that his cousin, Benito, is out of a job.

"He got too big for his breeches and when he got in with Hitler, that finished him," remarked the 61-year-old steel worker, a naturalized citizen who recalled seeing his cousin in Italy when a boy.

ATTORNEY-COMPOSER DIES

WINS STAR

Ohioan Cited for Gallantry In North African Campaign.

CAMBRIDGE —(INS)— Sgt. Willard G. Hayes, 22, of Franklin, Ohio, today was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action in the North African area.

Although wounded twice, he rescued his regimental and battalion commanders who were taken prisoners by the Nazis.

This is Hayes third decoration, having previously received the Purple Heart and the French Cross.

LONDON ALERTED

But Searchlights Drive Off Lone Nazi Raider.

LONDON —(INS)— The British capital had a brief air alert early today when a few high-flying Nazi raiders came in over the English coast and one plane appeared in the sky over the London outskirts.

The lone Nazi raider which penetrated to the vicinity of London was caught in the beams of searchlights and forced to fly off.

SOMBER: Tokyo Admits Ship Facilities Starting to Falter

(By Associated Press)

President Roosevelt's disclosure that Japan had lost more ships than she had been able to replace was underlined today by a Tokyo broadcast somberly recalling that lack of shipping "determined the fate of Germany in the first World war."

The broadcast, warning the Japanese people it was "absolutely essential" for Japan to concentrate on shipbuilding, admitted diminishing transport facilities prevented the shipment of products from Java, Borneo, Burma and other conquered lands to Japan.

New blows against the enemy's shipping were announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters today in a communique reporting that Allied air-sea attacks had left a Japanese destroyer and a transport in flames, damaged a 2,500-ton freighter, and had sunk 13 barges.

The communique gave no fresh information on the siege of the prize Japanese air base at Munda, in the central Solomons, but a delayed dispatch from J. Norman Lodge, Associated Press correspondent with American forces outside Munda, said indescribable conditions in the jungles, hills and defiles made it doubtful the stronghold would be captured before mid-August.

Lodge said American troops were within sight of Munda airdrome, but that a daily gain of 200 yards was considered reasonable.

"But after all," he added, "the country has been ours longer than it has been theirs."

TOO MANY BEEFSTEAKS

SAN JOSE, Cal. —(U.P.)— With the country facing a possible war-emergency meat shortage, Judge M. G. Delmutiolo has ruled that any husband-given blackeye that requires three beefsteaks to bring back to normal constitutes grounds for divorce. Mrs. Vera Bowden, the petitioner, admitted she slapped her husband in the face first, but insisted he came back with a "three-beefsteak" blackeye.

Navy Urges Its Aerial Gunners Shoot To Hit

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The oldest living gunner, wherever he is, did not get that way by chance, nor by luck, nor by picking his targets.

He studied all types of aircraft until he could tell whether they were friend or foe at any speed, angle or distance; he learned all about his guns and how to keep them shooting, he learned all there is to know about tracer bullets, and then he practiced. And practiced some more.

This knowledge, according to the navy in a brochure titled "Gunnery Sense," is what made him the oldest living gunner.

A passing acquaintance with the mechanics of air fighting is not enough, the pamphlet warns. Japanese fliers who oppose our gunners in grim life and death combat are not interested in whether American gunners have just managed to pass the course. In fact, they hope that passing grades become more common than they are; that sort of pilot is more easily shot down.

The thing for American pilots to know is how to put the right amount of lead in the right place at the right time, and that frequently means putting lead into what is vacant, blue sky at the moment the gunner lets go.

BREVARD, N. C. —(U.P.)— The manpower shortage has even affected men's basketball teams and Brevard college has employed its first woman cage coach in history. Her name: Miss Nancy Blanton. She's instructor in physical education, and she's doing a fine job on the court. The club has won the majority of its games this season.

RULING HITS WAR BONDS

Beneficiary Gets Notes In Event of Death of Purchaser.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—War Bonds, upon the death of the registered purchaser, become the property of the designated beneficiary, Surrogate James A. Foley decided in the estate of William J. Deyo, who died Dec. 25, 1940.

In the decision, which will involve millions of dollars in other cases, the court maintained:

"The rights of a beneficiary under war bonds is somewhat analogous to the rights of a beneficiary under an insurance policy, a beneficiary under a trust agreement, or a beneficiary of a "Totten Trust". The latter is the ordinary form of a bank account, which becomes the property of the beneficiary upon the death of the original owner.

A previous decision reached at Special Term maintained that war bonds were assets of the purchaser or the decedent's estate and therefore did not belong to the surviving beneficiary.

Sees Wartime Severest For Pure Science

MONTEREY, Cal. —(U.P.)— Dr. W. K. Fisher, who will retire Aug. 31 from his position as director of the third largest marine experimental station in the world, declares that the war years were the severest trial pure science has stood in recent years.

"There is now every inducement to abandon pure science for technical applications, but someone must keep the candlelight burning," he said.

The responsibility for preserving what he called "the sacred flame" rests largely with the universities, Fisher believes, but he said their position for this task was jeopardized by wartime demands on curricula.

Fisher, author of six books on marine phenomenon, including a three-volume work completed in 1930, has served since 1917 as director of the Timothy Hopkins Marine station, operated at Pacific Grove, Cal., by Stanford university.

"We are interested here in pure science," he said, "and this is one place where we can carry on pure science without having any responsibility to make it immediately useful.

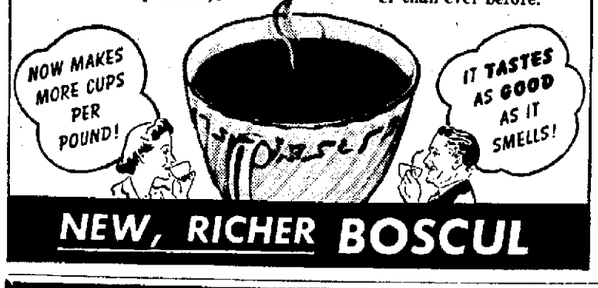
HOW TO MAKE YOUR COFFEE S-T-R-E-T-C-H

1. MEASURE CAREFULLY—you'll be surprised how far a rich coffee like Boscul goes!
2. KEEP FRESH—store in covered jar (in refrigerator if possible).
3. DON'T MAKE MORE than you need—it's too good to waste!
4. BUY BOSCUL—now blended of more expensive mountain coffees—richer than ever before.



NEW, RICHER BOSCUL

As Palermo Hailed Yankee Liberators

Like a homefolks' welcome to conquering heroes is this scene in Sicily when applause and cheers greeted the invading Yanks as they entered Palermo shortly after its capture. No hostility shows in the faces of this street crowd. Sheets and cloths hang from balconies in enthusiastic surrender, and boys hook a ride on a passing army truck. Official U. S. Army Signal Corps radiophoto.

FOREST FIRES AND SMOKE SEEN AS AID TO THE ENEMY

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — There is a "ruthless enemy" on the home front and we must fight "for its complete elimination." It is sly and insidious . . . a puff of smoke, a crackle of brush and branch, and then a blaze that can be seen from "an altitude of 3,000 feet."

The need for preventing forest fires in aid of military air and sea activity was emphasized today by the Chamber of Commerce, which pointed out that a "considerable amount of flying time has been lost due to haze and the 'loom' created by forest fires and their smoke."

Among the fifth column activities of forest fire and smoke, the Chamber of Commerce listed interference with training schedules, reduction of the visibility and effective range of coast artillery, and disruption of shipping in ports by slowing up small boats between ship and shore and increasing the danger of collision.

"The glow of forest fires has been seen for 20 miles off shore and has silhouetted ships to make them targets for enemy submarines. The smoke can screen enemy submarines from air observation "as well as interfere with the work of surface vessels in their anti-submarine campaign."

In view on the "drain on trained fire fighting personnel," the problem of protecting forests and their industries from fire becomes "an American problem to be handled with conviction and determination by citizens and their government," the Chamber of Commerce stated.

"This forest battle line must hold and, at the same time, we must fight for the complete elimination of the ruthless enemy — forest fire."

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Luther McCally believes his pal Tommy Moxley may be in the thick of that stuff over in Sicily these days. Moxley is the all-round sports star from Westinghouse.

Luther is a guy who likes to know the score at all times, and he will start adding up the runs from the first inning on in order to keep informed of what goes on.

So if he adds two and two and makes four, this should not be considered too remarkable a coincidence, but merely a demonstration of how a well-trained mind will work when conforming to habit. If you get what I mean.

Luther, let me report, has just been adding two and two again, and the result is guaranteed not to give comfort to the enemy. "After these mental mathematics, I deduce that our boy Tom is in Sicily," says Luther, "and this is how I come upon this deduction:

"We hadn't heard from Tom in North Africa for some time, and the last letter we had said he was changing address, and not to write.

"So a couple days ago we get a letter dated June 29, saying he had moved four times in the last month, and was getting ready to move again."

"I imagine Tom was kinda busy packing up." says Luther. "They didn't go into Sicily with just a toothbrush."

Mansfield lodge is sending six of its better niblick swingers to Columbus Wyandot course Friday for the Ohio Moose golf tournament.

This action was taken on quick notice by the brothers of the Mansfield lodge, who received posters on the tournament Monday, took it up at lodge meeting Tuesday night, and decided to send the sixsome, with entry paid.

Not a bad league to belong to, what?

The six Mansfield golfers who go into action Friday morning in the state joust are: Joe Mayer, Matz Fisher, Mike Reif, Ray Malaska, Frank Jocha and Dick Gaubatz.

As I understand it, it will be a 36-hole test, 18 in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

And if Joe Mayer keeps up his recent hot streak, you can look for Guiseppe's name up among the leaders.

Coaches Confused On Wartime Sport

NEW YORK —(AP)— Some 60 football coaches and athletic directors have spent 24 hours listening to speeches on the wartime fate of the gridiron sport — and wound up dizzier than a freshman running through his first T-formation assignments.

They heard Maj. Gen. Phillip B. Fleming of the federal works agency, formerly graduate manager of athletics at the U. S. Military academy, tell them that the plan offered by Asa Bushnell, head of the eastern office for intercollegiate athletics, was "so sound it is worthy of war department study again and should be presented to the president's three-man sports committee when it is named."

And they also listened as Dr. John Harmon of Boston university gave tacit approval to the army's ban of intercollegiate sports for its trainees stationed on the country's campuses.

The meeting yesterday already had recessed when Rep Samuel Weiss of Pennsylvania, who tops today's speaking program here, announced in Washington he had received a letter from President Roosevelt that indicated a possible reconsideration of the army order.

In contract to the army ruling navy college trainees are permitted to compete if it does not interfere with their studies.

Graf Turned Down On Football Knees

COLUMBUS —(NS)— Jack Graf of Columbus, who was selected most valuable player in the Western conference while playing quarterback on the Ohio State football team in 1941, today was back home after being honorably discharged from the army as physically unfit.

Graf, who had taken nine months of advanced military training at Harvard university before his induction in June, was found to have bad knees when given a physical examination in preparation to entering an officer's candidate school, it was said. He had been stationed at Fort Warren, Wyo.

Graf today said his plans for the future were indefinite.

Phils Go On Strike For Bucky

Then Snap Cardinal Winning Streak at 11.

By JOHN CASHMAN

HARD on the heels of the Brooklyn Dodger's turmoil which ended in the expulsion of Bobo Newsom, came the revolt of the Philadelphia Phillies today who last night staged a 40-minute strike protesting the firing of their manager, Bucky Harris.

The Phils delayed the start of their game with the St. Louis Cardinals 40 minutes, but capitulated when club president William Cox addressed an appeasing statement to Harris. From there the Phils went on to take a 6 to 4 win from the league leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Meantime the Brooklyn Dodgers who gave up Freddie Fitzsimmons to be the Phil's new manager slipped to third place today after they dropped a double game to the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 7 and 4 to 2.

The Pittsburgh Pirates had advanced to second place by nine percentage points capitalizing on Brooklyn's defeat and the thrashing they gave the New York Giants in an 8 to 3 night victory.

In each Cubs' triumph, the victory was scored the hard way as the Chicagoans came from behind to win. The Dodgers poured all their resources, including six pitchers, into the opener, but twice blew a lead. The Cubs overcame a two-run deficit in the ninth to tie the score, then emerged on top in the 11th inning when Stu Martin singled in Ival Goodman with the winning run.

In the nightcap, the Cubs' Harry Lowery overcame Brooklyn's one-run lead by tripling in the seventh with two aboard.

While the amazing Rip Sewell was pitching nine-hit ball, his team mates climbed all over Carl Hubbell, Harry Feldman and Van Lingle Mungo for fourteen hits. The Pirates jumped into an early one-run lead in the first inning, added another in the fourth, then went on to score three in the fifth, two in the sixth and the last tally in the eighth.

The Boston at Cincinnati night game was postponed.

Moving into the American league, the Boston Red Sox grabbed both ends of a twin bill with the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 1 and 6 to 4. The Red Sox made only six hits off Virgil Trucks and Tommy Bridges in the opener, but four of them, including a homer by George Metkovich, counted for runs. Dick Newsom, pitching the first eight inning for the Red Sox gained credit for his second win of the year in the nightcap.

The Cleveland Indians thrashed the New York Yankees, 6 to 2, then both teams combined were beaten by the North Carolina Pre-Flight Cloud-Busters, 11 to 5. In the opener, the Indians walloped Spud Chandler in the very first inning with a four-run rally. Frankie Crosett accounted for half New York's runs with an eighth-inning homer.

The Cloudbusters' triumph was their twenty-fourth in their last 27 starts. Babe Ruth, who managed the Yanklands, took a couple of cuts at the ball, eventually drawing a walk.

The St. Louis Browns took over the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 1. Chet Laabs smashed out a homer for the Brownies' cause in the sixth inning, and clubmate McQuinn followed up with another in the ninth.

The Chicago White Sox gave the Washington Senators a thorough 12 to 7 walloping in a night game, thus preventing the Senators from creeping into second place, six percentage points over the already twice-thrashed Tigers. The White Sox really poured it on. There were only three innings in which they did not score, and when the slaughter was over, they had collected 21 hits.

Close Games Seen In Junior League

One-run victories were the order in the Junior Parks softball league yesterday as Empire Steel edged North Lake 3-2 in one extra inning, and Maple Lake nudged Paul's Friendly Store 8-7.

North Lake got its two runs in the first inning, while Empire tallied one in the fourth, tied the score in the sixth, and won in the eighth. Reynolds held North to four hits.

Breaking a 6-6 tie, Maple Lake scored two runs in the first of the seventh, and needed both of them as Paul's came back with one marker in their half of the stanza. Baer gave the losers only four hits but walked eight.

ALSAB ENTERED IN RACE AT ARLINGTON

CHICAGO—(INS)—Alsab, the Al Sabath colt which has been away from the races with injuries since last fall, was among the entries today in a six-furlong sprint at the Arlington meeting at Washington park.

His owner said Alsab would go to the post barring a bad track. Sabath hopes to keep the colt in condition to make a try at bettering the all-time money winning record of Whilaway which piled up $561,161 in purses before being retired recently.

Alsab now has $345,165 to his credit.

Bucky Harris Vindicated

Temporary Peace Comes To Disrupted Phillies.

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Peace settled today upon the troubled Philadelphia National league team, whose players staged a 40-minute strike last night as a gesture of loyalty to their ousted manager, Bucky Harris.

Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons, yanked suddenly from the Brooklyn Dodgers, was in charge of the Phils, and Bucky, who smarted from his dismissal without notice and loudly said so, apparently was mollified after a handsome apology from Owner William D. Cox.

That the players, who declared they would not go onto the field until Bucky was given the chance to resign, had no animus against their new manager, Fitzsimmons, was evidenced after the affair was patched up when they went out and whipped the champion Cardinals, 6-4.

Twenty-four of the players signed a statement which they presented to Cox before the game was to start. It said they resented the fact that Cox had not taken up the matter with Harris personally and given him the chance to resign.

In view of Harris' years of service in baseball, the players declared they believed he was entitled to "just that decency."

Cox conferred with the players for some time in the clubhouse, then emerged and was joined by Charles Grimes of New York, attorney for the Phils.

The players vacated the clubhouse while Cox and Grimes, who had summoned Bucky, returned to the clubhouse for a talk with the deposed manager. Shortly, Bucky came out with a statement from Cox addressed to him.

In it, Cox described as "an unfortunate incident" the fact that the news of Harris' dismissal had been released before he had the opportunity to resign.

"There was every intent that that be given you," Cox said.

"Cox's statement is good enough for me," Harris announced, and that ended the flare-up.

"The stand the players of the Phils have taken in my behalf flatters me no little," Harris continued. "I feel they have vindicated any charges against me as a baseball manager."

Carl Kushin Breaks Par

AP Features

THE Backstroke may appear to be like the crawl, upside down, but actually there are great differences. Since the face is always out of water, there is no breathing problem, and the arm stroke is different.

1. Timing of the arm stroke is most important in the backstroke. As the right arm is first dug out of the water the elbow is bent.

2. As the left arm starts to push the right arm is moved up higher and forward in an arc and laid in the water at full arm's length.

3. Driving the kick from the hips without twisting the body, pull the arms through the water almost sideways rather than dipping down.

4. As one arm sweeps through the water the other is brought back past the head keeping the body in a straight line.

5. One arm must catch the water just as the first arm is nearing the body and losing its power. The motions must coordinate with the legs.

THE BODY POSITION is very important. The idea is to keep the body in a straight line and move arms and legs so they don't twist it. In the kick, drive the legs up and down, but don't lock the knees too rigidly.

Sisters Reach Semi-Finals

Massa Takes 12-10 Set From Kingman.

News-Journal third annual tennis tournament has been moving right along, but today's weather probably will slow down the schedule enough to bring the tourney to a climax a week from Sunday.

Sisters moved into the semi-finals of the women's division yesterday when Lois Weingartner defeated Frances Wolfe, Ashland champion, 6-2 6-0, and Meredith Fisher won from Jerry Banks 6-0, 6-2.

In the longest deuce battle of the tournament, Paul Massa finally won the first set over Lee Klingman 12-10, and then took the second set 6-1. Massa was scheduled to meet defending champion Lowell Bourns this afternoon.

The fact that Norman Wilcox defending boys' champion, is away at college, and can play only on week-ends, is holding up both the boys' and men's divisions Wilcox is scheduled to meet Jim Rakestraw Saturday in the men's tourney, and the winner will meet Watty Slabaugh, probably Sunday.

The unplayed Bloor-Franzen first round match also is holding up the boys' division.

Birds Threaten In Association

(By Associated Press)

While Milwaukee continues to repulse the first place challenge of Indianapolis in the tight American association race, another contender — the Columbus Redbirds—are moving into threatening position.

Columbus advanced into a virtual tie with second place Indianapolis last night, going 13 innings to defeat St. Paul, 10-9 while the Indians were losing to Milwaukee, 10-5.

Minneapolis pulled within a half game of fourth place Toledo by defeating the Mudhens, 8-4. At Kansas City, the last place Blues rose up to take both games of a doubleheader from Louisville, 7-1 and 8-5.

Sport Roundup

NEW YORK —(AP)— First reaction here to the Dodgers' announcement that the Phillies had a new manager was that it supported the rumors rampant in Philadelphia that Branch Rickey really is the guy behind the Phils. . . . After letting the idea stew a while, we figure it just the other way—though Rickey and Bill Cox might find it easier to have a special phone for their conversations. . . . We can't see a man with as much baseball wisdom as Rickey firing a good manager for no other apparent reason than that he insisted on doing the managing himself and keeping the owner in his place.

SHORTS AND SHELLS.

The only change necessary to get the Empire City race track ready for the harness meeting that starts this evening was nailing a strip of boards on the inner rail as a hub rail. . . . Empire originally was a harness track but the trotters haven't performed there since 1915. . . . Latest tip is to watch out for Rochester university, come football season. They've got 74 lettermen from other colleges, including Temple, Syracuse and Fordham, among the navy and marine trainees—also a Sept. 18 spot on the Yale schedule.

Arch Ward, Chicago Tribune: "Johnny Schiechl, former center from Santa Clara, has been rejected by the army because of a perforated ear drum, a trick knee, a touch of sinus, high blood pressure and a slight concussion . . . which leaves practically nothing for him to do but play professional football." STRIKE THREATENED BY DETROIT JOCKEYS

DETROIT—(U.P.)—Racing Commissioner W. A. Dowling confers today with the jockey guild in an effort to avert a threatened strike of riders at the Detroit race track over a 23-day suspension handed Johnny Adams.

One of the nation's top jockeys, Adams was suspended early this week for riding Charles T. Fisher's Amber Light at Chicago Saturday, a violation of a previous agreement to ride Earl H. Heezley's Grasshopper II in a race here.

Westies Win, And Then Lose

Take Indus Contest, Drop Tilt at Ashland.

Westinghouse softballers continued undefeated in Industrial league play last evening, but lost their third game of the season in independent competition.

After defeating Ideal Electric 7-3 in a twilight tilt at North Lake park, Westies traveled to Ashland for a night game, and were trounced 12-5 when Ashland made 10 runs in the fifth and sixth innings. Ashland had four runs in with nobody out in the sixth when the lights were turned out at 10:30.

Scoring seven runs in the second inning, and breaking into the run column in every heat but the fifth, Local 758 walloped Great Lakes Local, 15-5. Windsor got two home runs, and Graska and Siwek one each for the winners.

Tappans walloped Barnes 18-6 in the other game. Box score on this game was incomplete.

Indians Tied For 2nd Place

Harder Gives Tribe First Stadium Victory.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Cleveland Indians finally won a 1943 baseball game in Yankee stadium, and by way of reward boomed up into a second place tie with the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox.

Behind the five-hit pitching of Mel Harder, who won his fourth game of the season, the Indians bombarded the Yankee ace, Spud Chandler, for eight hits and took two more from Atlee Donald to win a 6 to 2 decision, evening the series at one apiece. It was the first Cleveland victory in five New York appearances.

Manager Lou Boudreau hammered a home run into the left field stands in the fourth inning, his second of the year, and scored behind Ray Mack. Boudreau hit safely three times in the game, leading the attack.

When the major leaguers were through battling each other they combined forces to lose an 11 to 5 exhibition to the Naval Preflight Cloudbusters of Chapel Hill, N. C. It was a benefit for the National War Fund, Inc.

TRY AGAIN

CINCINNATI —(AP)— If it was a plot, it failed.

Just about the time the ball park was getting all the people whose ticket money goes to the American Red Cross and other war relief agencies, the clouds opened up and last night's charity game between the Boston Braves and the Cincinnati Reds had to be postponed.

But, if it doesn't happen again, the game will be played tonight, and last night's rain checks will be good, and any additional take at the gate will go to the same destination. Mannie Salvo and Johnny Vander Meer are the pitchers.

This evening's scheduled twilight game is being put over until Sept. 25, when it will become part of a twilight-night doubleheader.

Last night's estimated 20,000 turnout got a little baseball for its $27,500. Mickey Cochrane's star-studded team from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station and a combined Braves-Reds nine put in five innings before the rain and the Sailors won, 4 to 2.

They made all their runs in the first inning off the Red rookie, Bob Malloy, and old Danny MacFayden of the Braves. Bob gave four singles and a walk and Danny gave two walks.

The Reds, bowing to public demand, scheduled seven more night games to bring the season's total to the permitted 14. The dates and opponents are Aug. 27, St. Louis; Aug. 31, Chicago; Sept. 10, Pittsburgh (twilight-night doubleheader); Sept. 23, New York; Sept. 25, Oct. 1, Brooklyn.

Have a "Coke"=Dinkum Cobber

(HOWDY, PAL)

"Coke"= Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

...or how Americans make friends in New Zealand

"You're a dinkum cobber", says the New Zealander when he wants to call you pal. The American soldier says it another way. Have a "Coke", says he, and in three words he has made a friend. It's a phrase that says, "Welcome, neighbor" from Auckland to Albuquerque. 'Round the globe Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become the high-sign between kindly-minded people.

Ickes Says Coal Output Falls Steadily Behind Goal

HOPES COUPON RATION WON'T BE NECESSARY

Administrator Says Miners Out To Produce More, Sees Mid-West Gasoline Cut.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—With coal production still not reaching pre-strike levels, coal administrator Ickes today revealed that "we are falling further behind our goal every day."

However, Ickes hopes it will not be necessary to ration coal to consumers by a coupon system. "We're not ready for coal rationing yet," he told a news conference.

Coal production is still 25,000,000 tons behind this year's goal, Ickes revealed. Production last week reached 12,100,000 tons, but this was 400,000 tons below the pre-strike average of 12,500,000 tons.

"And we should be producing about 13,000,000 tons a week to make our goal," said the coal administrator, "and thus we are falling further behind our goal every day."

Ickes brought up the question of the eight-hour day in the coal mines, but did not state whether he feels the miners should add one hour to their present work day of seven hours.

"I have the feeling," he said, "that the miners ought to be producing more coal. There is, for example, the question of the eight hour day."

However, the coal czar refused to discuss the merits of a new contract proposed by John L. Lewis for his United Mine Workers in Illinois which would grant the workers an eight hour to each day's work at overtime rates.

The solid fuels administration, he revealed, is still pressing for conversion of heating facilities in industrial plants from oil to coal, but is no longer urging home owners to convert to coal.

"There are so many uncertainties in the coal situation today," he explained.

Expects Further Mid-West Gas Cut

WASHINGTON— (INS) —Petroleum Administration Ickes today forecast further gasoline and oil restrictions in the mid-west and southwest areas of the nation which will ease shortages in the 13 east coast states.

Ickes predicted that "equalization of gasoline rationing between the east coast and the mid-western and southwestern states will take place within a few weeks."

The oil czar refused direct comment on lifting the present restrictions on pleasure driving in the east. He said:

"We are going to be able to supply the east coast with heating oil and necessary commercial driving and still have some left over for the ordinary motorist."

ELKS PLAN FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

Annual Elks picnic will be held next Wednesday at the Coolridge golf course with afternoon activities scheduled to start at 1 p. m., and dinner at 6 p. m.

Blind bogey will start at 2:30. Prizes will be awarded. Music will be furnished during the afternoon and there will also be card games.

Transportation from the Elks will be furnished for those who need it.

INFANT DIES

CRESTLINE—Theodore Wayne Cromer, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Cromer, died at Emergency hospital Wednesday, 24 hours after birth.

Funeral services will be held at the Robert Beck funeral home Thursday at 3 p. m. Rev. Olin F. Hull, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

Surviving are the parents and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Irene Werner.

BEET CROP HIT BY WEATHER

Growers Decide to Keep Sugar Processing Plant at Findlay Closed.

FINDLAY —(INS)— Adverse weather conditions were blamed today for the decision of the directors of the Sugar Beet Growers' association not to operate the Findlay plant of the Great Lakes Sugar Co., this year.

W. F. Schmitt of Toledo, the company's general manager, said that less than 3,000 acres of beets would be available although 7,600 acres were supposed to be under contract.

Only 6,700 acres were planted, he said, and more than half of this acreage was drowned out or the yield will be so poor that it would not pay the cost of harvesting.

Beets from the Findlay area will go to the Fremont plant, which also will handle beets from the Blissfield, Mich., area, where another plant has been closed for the year.

The three plants last year processed beets from 400,000 acres, but this year the crop will be less than 65,000 acres.

Warns Gas Stamps Must Be Endorsed With Tag Numbers

Motorists were reminded today by Charles Beelman, chairman of the ration board, that all coupons in their gasoline ration books must be endorsed with license numbers on the face of the coupon immediately.

Immediate endorsements are required under a new Office of Price Administration amendment both as a convenience to the public and as a help to OPA investigators in checking misuse of ration coupons falling into the hands of persons not entitled to them, Beelman said.

Whenever a motor vehicle registration number is changed, this change must be noted by the War Price and Rationing Board or state registration official, on the front cover of the book. The coupons bearing the old number may then be used without change.

In the case of all gasoline ration books except 'E' and 'R' books, the license number and the state of registration of the vehicle are to be written on the face of the coupon. In the case of the 'E' and 'R' books, the name and address, as it appears on the cover of the book, should be endorsed on the coupons.

RITES FRIDAY

ASHLAND — Funeral services will be conducted at the Park Street Brethren church Friday at 3 p. m. for Leland Mundorf, 33, former Ashland resident, who died Tuesday at his home in Norwalk after an illness of seven months. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

Surviving are his widow, a son, David, a step-daughter, Velma Wharton of Norwalk; his mother, Mrs. Hattie Mundorf of Ashland and two brothers, Louis Mundorf of Canton and Clayton Mundorf of Ashland.

BUSY SCHEDULE

McGregor, Here 2 Days, Has Most of Friday Booked.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor, due at the Richland county courthouse Friday for conferences with county residents on current problems, already has most of Friday booked, it was learned today.

To facilitate the handling of requests for individual meetings with the 17th district congressman Friday and Saturday at the courthouse, Ralph Hardy, county G.O.P. executive chairman, was chosen to help arrange the meetings. Requests turned in to Hardy at the courthouse will be placed on Congressman McGregor's schedule.

The congressman explained that his meetings here are entirely non-partisan and he urged members of both parties to meet with him for answers to their questions or to offer suggestions.

A public forum session, arranged by the Mansfield League of Women Voters, is scheduled for Friday at 8 p. m. in the common pleas courtroom where the congressman will meet visitors Friday and Saturday after 9 a. m.

Legion to Sponsor Circus Appearance In City Aug. 19

Final arrangements for the appearance of the Mills Brothers circus in Mansfield on Thursday, Aug. 19 were completed today by the committee of the McVey Post No. 16, American Legion, sponsoring the performance.

The three-ring circus will be at the Armory lot on Ashland road for an afternoon and evening performance. Tickets can be obtained in advance from members of the Legion.

The local post will receive 50 per cent of the advance sale on tickets, committeemen said. The money will be used for the various benefits of the Legion.

CROSSING GOES

'Dead Man's Grade' Will Be Eliminated By County.

"Dead Man's Crossing," as a strip of Trimble road came to be known in the days of the interurban line, will be eliminated when the road is rerouted by county highway workers, County Engineer Howard Sword said today.

Scene of several fatal accidents, the strip of road contains the now unused interurban crossing and the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroad crossings.

Sword said grading would begin next week on the road which will be made to run along side the railroad tracks and connect with Springmill street.

FEDERAL BANKS ADDED TO LIST OF DEFERRABLES

Selective Service Also Cites New Regulations on Student Deferment.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The selective service system today made public additions to the list of essential occupations, used as a guide by local draft boards in granting draft deferments.

Federal reserve banks and branches were added to the list of essential occupations in federal government services. Others made essential were:

Mining and dressing of tin ores; mandrel-wound products and mandrel-winding stocks; butcher papers untreated and treated; fruit and vegetable wrapping tissues; pattern tissues; rope and jute; twisting and spinning of paper products; wrapping paper; cable and electric insulation; twine; mesh cloth and fabrics.

The production of synthetic textiles for civilian use was broadened to include the manufacture of rayon and nylon as essential activities. Manufacture of carbon black in furnaces was broadened to cover all types of carbon black processes in the essential list and mining of gypsum was also included.

Under essential repair services, the selective service system added repair parts specialists on automatic or agricultural machinery. The manufacture of electric fuses used in the production of industrial and agricultural equipment was classified as an essential activity.

In addition, the selective service system revised requirements for the deferments of students in scientific and specialized fields with a view to limiting the number of freshmen who may be deferred and the period allowed for graduation.

The number of freshmen students doing work in agriculture, forestry, pharmistry or optometry must not exceed 150 per cent of the average size of the college class during the years 1939-42, the selective service system specified.

Deferments for the following student courses will be considered only if the course will be completed within two years from the time deferment is requested.

JUDGE CRAMER ON COMMITTEE

Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer has been named Richland county representative and publicity chairman for the annual meeting of the Ohio Welfare conference. Dr. Leonard W. Mayo, conference president, announced today.

The conference will be held at the Deshler-Wallick hotel in Columbus, Oct. 5 to 7. This year's meeting will be shortened and will be held during the middle of the week to eliminate week-end travel, conference leaders said.

office ad. I found her picture in there, alongside of the famous Arthur Brisbane and other journalistic lights. They called her their "baby star."

By now I was competing with her on one big story after another. She was a crack reporter. She scooped 200 of us newspaper people at Flemington, N. J., with her first exclusive interview with Bruno Richard Hauptman.

Blase New York lifted a surprised eyebrow one day when she took off (with my typewriter) on a race around the world against two rival newspaper men. She made the Page 1 headlines in a big way. The night she took off from Lakehurst on the dirigible Von Hindenburg, I was there covering the story for INS.

She cracked up in Indo-China in a little two-seater plane. But she got around the globe all right. I was in San Francisco covering the story when she came in on the China Clipper. Arriving back home in New York she was hailed as "the modern Nellie Bly." She finished second in the race but she stole the story all the way around.

She dashed off a book, "Girl Around the World," then went to Hollywood for several months to do personality sketches of movie stars. She took her mother along.

Her paper sent her to London to cover the coronation of King George VI, and the divorce of Wallis Warfield now Duchess of Windsor.

Dorothy was getting in the papers all the time. A national trade organization selected her as one of America's ten best-dressed women, along with Carole Lombard and Lily Pons.

Her paper asked her to become a Broadway columnist, and she took this assignment in stride, too. That was five years ago. Soon she was syndicated. She wrote articles and fiction for the leading magazines. She went on the radio for a year and a half over a nationwide hookup.

She knows every personality that makes the Main Stem. She plays no favorites, knocks nobody. She shakes a wicked typwriter. She can write.

She coins phrases such as a couple be "a heartillery harrage," or a "heart toddy." She rarely takes a note and has a camera mind. She loves clothes and has a yen for hats. She is a fast spender. She hates "table-hopping," and never does it. She gets her information from society women, reporters, movie stars, cops, taxi drivers, hat check girls, debutantes, ball players, et al.

They say you can't have your cake and eat it. But Dorothy has combined home and career. She ise married to Richard Kollmar, musical comedy star and producer of the current hit, "Early to Bed." They have two children, Richard, jr., aged two, and Jill, born a few days ago.

I used to be known for my own newspaper work, but now they say: "Are you any relation to Dorothy Kilgallen?" I like that.

If you ever need $25, $50, $100 or more quickly and simply, come to Household Finance. If you have a job so that you can repay in small monthly payments, you are welcome to apply for any amount up to $1000. The sooner you repay the less your loan costs. Example: A $50 loan repaid in 6 monthly instalments of $9.24 each costs $5.44—if repaid in one month the cost is only $1.50. No endorsers or guarantors are ever needed. We never make inquiries of friends or relatives.

MARKET GOES HIGHER WITH ACTIVE TRADE

Civilian Petroleum Stocks Increase Slightly To 6-Month Record.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks were generally higher in early dealings tiday with turnover at a substantial level.

Among industrial and rail leaders up fractionally at the start were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Pullman, Public Service of N. J., Goodyear, U. S. Rubber, General Electric, Pennsylvania, and N. Y. Central.

Owners of oil shares noted the report of the American Petroleum Institute which said civilian stocks of petroleum products in the east rose slightly in the past week to the highest point since February. Total stocks on hand still were only 35.2 per cent of normal.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Grain scored substantial advances at the opening today. Failure of President Roosevelt to discuss price ceilings and roll backs in last night's speech encouraged a more bullish attitude toward the market.

Wheat started ½-¾c higher, September $1.44¼-½. December $1.46-1.46¼, and rye yas up ½-1¾c, September $1.02⅛-1.03¼.

FINDLAY PLANT IDLE

FINDLAY —(AP)— The Great Lakes Sugar company announced it would not operate its plant here this year. Beets from the Findlay area will be shipped to the firm's Fremont plant for processing, the company said.

LEGAL NOTICE

To MATILDA SCHLENBAKER

You are hereby notified that on the 13th day of July, 1943, the Council of the City of Mansfield, State of Ohio duly passed Resolution No. 43-114 declaring it necessary to improve Elmwood Drive between West Fourth Street and the north boundary of Lot No. 6350 of Mansfield, Ohio by making the necessary foundation repairs, grading curbing draining and paving with some suitable material the width of twenty-two (22) feet as per plans profiles, specifications and estimates now on file with the City Engineer.

That the cost and expense of said improvement will be assessed by the foot front on the lots and lands bounding and abutting the proposed improvement.

By order of the Council of the City of Mansfield.

Attest R R BLACK, Clerk.

THEATERS

Tone Stars As Pilot.

A character study of what makes an American pilot tick is presented against the timely background of Java under Jap fire in M. G. M's "Pilot Number Five," now showing at the Ohio. Starring Franchot Tone, Marsha Hunt and Gene Kelly, the picture unfolds the life story of a pilot who departs on a sure suicidal mission against the enemy. Tone is the pilot. Appearing in the cast and in important parts are Steve Geray, Dorothy Morris, Howard Freeman, Frank Puglia, John Hamilton, Helen Lowe and Frank Ferguson.

Bill Stern Seen.

Bill Stern, National Broadcasting company director of sports and famous sportscaster, plays himself in Samuel Goldwyn's "The Pride of the Yankees," starring Gary Cooper and based on the life of the late Lou Gehrig. Stern flew to the coast from New York to appear in the recreation of "Lou Gehrig Memorial Day," the famous event at Yankee stadium marking Gehrig's retirement from baseball. Teresa Wright, Walter Brennan and Babe Ruth head the supporting cast. Bill Dickey, present Yankee catcher and a teammate of Gehrig when the latter was at his peak, appears in the film "Salute for Three" is the other Madison attraction.

Impeachment Trial.

The only impeachment trial ever brought against a president of the United States is prominently featured in "Tennessee Johnson," currently showing at the Ritz. Four hundred players appear in the impeachment scenes against Andrew Johnson. Lionel Barrymore plays the part of Thaddeus Stevens, who brought about the impeachment proceedings. The story deals with the life of Johnson, an illiterate tailor's apprentice who becomes president. Other picture is "Meet John Doe," starring Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck.

RESTRICTIONS ON WHEAT OFF UNDER RULING

AAA Quotas Lifted First Time In 10 Years; Bonus Checks Also End.

Richland county farmers will seed their wheat this fall without government acreage restrictions or the promise of AAA checks for the first time in 10 years, and they will market their crop next summer without marketing quotas and penalties.

The county Triple-A office had been informed today that wheat quotas have been lifted by the department of agriculture and no provision has been made for making wheat payments to farmers on their 1944 crop.

Farmers, however, will continue to earn government payments for soil-building practices, including liming and seeding of crops which help to build land fertility.

The county AAA committee is awaiting a county wheat goal for 1944, but when it arrives the county group can do nothing more than urge farmers not to go "hog wild" with their seeding for next year.

While the information released to the Triple-A headquarters by the department of agriculture did not give the reason for removing the acreage restrictions and marketing quotas, it was interpreted here as meaning that the wheat surplus is dwindling rapidly due to the Allies' increasing demand for food supplies. The small wheat crop being harvested this summer in Ohio and other sections of the middle west also has figured in the government's plan for increasing acreage next year.

A national goal of 68,000,000 acres of wheat has been set for 1944. It will be allocated to the states which then will break it down into county goals. Since 1933 the AAA has limited the wheat acreage by paying farmers for keeping their crop within a goal. The 1943 wheat allotment for the county was 24,682 acres.

If the county committee thinks it's necessary, it is permitted to map goals for individual farmers, urging them to keep their wheat seeding within reason.

The department of agriculture is expected soon to launch a program urging farmers not to plow up land needed for other crops so they can raise more wheat, now that the restrictions have been lifted.

"In the desire to raise more wheat, we can't afford to create more dust bowls," said the department of agriculture message to the county AAA committee.

Fire Officials Probe $200,000 Blaze at Fremont

FREMONT—(U.P.)—Fire officials investigated today to determine whether defective wiring was responsible for a fire which destroyed Our Lady of the Pines, a 150-room community center of the Sisters of Mercy of the Toledo diocese.

The fire yesterday completely gutted the huge brick structure and only fire-blackened ruins remained today. Damage was estimated unofficially at $200,000.

It was not learned whether the center, which handles all business affairs of three parochial schools in Toledo, Tiffin and Lima, will be rebuilt.

It was believed that defective wiring may have caused the fire. An electrician was checking the wiring when the fire was discovered.

Firemen from Fremont, Tiffin and Toledo battled the blaze for more than six hours.

PEACE TERMS FOR ITALY SET BY EISENHOWER

General Says Presence of Nazi Troops Only Obstacle Now.

Eisenhower's headquarters announced U. S. Seventh army troops beating their way eastward along the coast toward the Axis "escape port" at Messina had captured three more towns and were within about nine miles of San Stefano, north coastal anchor of the German-defended Mt. Etna line. The Axis defense zone extends from San Stefano around towering Mt. Etna to Catania on the east coast.

The Americans seized Pollina, Castlebuono and Gangi, a communique said, while Canadian forces captured the town of Leon Forte, 35 miles west of Catania.

Pollina lies eight miles east of newly-captured Cefalu, with Castlebuono a few miles to the south. Gangi is about halfway between San Stefano and Leon Forte.

"Fierce fighting continues on the Canadian sector of the front and heavy casualties have been inflicted on the enemy," the daily war bulletin said.

"Steady progress is being made."

Other events at-a-glance:

RUSSIA—Red armies smash Orel's outer hedgehog defenses, storm main fortifications of German keystone bastion; Moscow reports 2,500 Germans killed, 30 more villages captured as Russians advance 2½ to 4 miles; Nazis throw in fresh reserves.

AIR WAR—U. S. Flying Fortresses strike within 80 miles of Berlin in unescorted daylight raid, blast Nazi aircraft plants at Oschersleben and Kassel; American shoot down 60 German fighters, lose 23 planes.

British disclose Hamburg hit by greatest bomb load in history—2,300 tons—in 45-minutes assault Tuesday night.

In turbulent Italy, Premier Badoglio strove with little apparent success to quell the wildfire of disorders and save the nation from chaos.

Swiss border reports said hundreds had been killed in widespread riots and that tension was mounting hourly.

While the Rome radio still insisted the new Badoglio regime intended to continue the war, crowds in Milan, Turin, Genoa and other cities kept up their shouts of "Peace!" and bitter fighting erupted throughout the nation.

Running a high fever of hatred for their Fascist oppressors, civilians were reported mobbing blackshirts in widespread "revenge hunts." Virginio Gayda, once known as ex-Premier Mussolini's press spokesman, was reported to have been killed in one of these outbreaks. A BBC report, however, said Gayda had been arrested and charged with high treason, along with Roberto Farinacci, former secretary-general of the Fascist party, and Mario Appelius, Rome radio commentator.

Gangs of outlawed Fascist militia clashed with regular Italian army troops at Milan, birthplace of fascism; Communists demonstrated in many cities, and a welter of peace parades, riots, strikes and rising political agitation brought the kingdom to the verge of civil war.

Reflecting dissatisfaction with Badoglio, a German foreign office spokesman was quoted as saying a new government in Rome would probably develop before the end of the week. Berlin mentioned Crown Prince Umberto as a rallying point for a new regime.

Meanwhile, Turkish reports said German troops had seized direct military command from Italian forces throughout Greece and Bern heard that revolt and sabotage were spreading to the Balkans.

Mussolini Still Missing on Birthday

BERN, Switzerland — (AP) — Benito Mussolini the man who always wanted to live dangerously, marked his 60th birthday today apparently a prisoner of the sovereign he dominated for 20 years.

There was no celebration of the event in Italy.

Mussolini's whereabouts still are a mystery. He has been reported a fugitive in Spain, a prisoner somewhere in northern Italy, in a villa near Rome or in Rome itself.

The Corriere Della Sera of Milan was one Italian newspaper that took cognizance of the occasion. It termed the man who strove to emulate Caesar an "aged corrupter," and added that in the minds of the Italian people today he was as good as buried.

Allies Capture Key Sicily City

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—(INS)—Allied forces in Sicily have captured the strategic town of Leonforte northwest of the central communications hub of Enna, an official communique announced today.

Pollina, Castelbuono and Gangi also were said to have been captured.

Russians Tighten Pincer on Orel

MOSCOW —(AP)— The Russian column advancing upon Orel from the south drove over the bodies of 1,500 Germans yesterday to force that claw of the giant pincers tighter about the vital city and keep pace with the northern and eastern onslaughts, the Russians said today.

Front line dispatches indicated the masses of Red army troops and tanks, in general advances of from 2½ to 4 miles, had battered down the Germans' defense systems and were storming the enemy bastion's strongest defenses.

Russian advices said the column advancing on Orel from the north was fighting its way through swamps and across streams raised to flood stage by recent rains.

Altogether, the Russians said they overran 30 occupied places, left more than 2,500 dead upon the field, and knocked out 29 German tanks yesterday in the Orel sector alone.

Franco, Aid Give Up Their 'Vacations'

MADRID—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco has cancelled plans to leave for his summer home in Galicia, it was disclosed today, as unconfirmed reports of fighting between Italian and German troops in northern Italy emphasized the growing seriousness of the situation there.

Foreign Minister Count Gobez Jordana, who had intended to go to San Sebastian this week for the summer, also is remaining in Madrid to follow Italian developments at first hand.

The reports of fighting between German and Italian troops said that Italian regulars, aided by civilians and railwaymen, had tried to block the entry of Nazi forces north of Milan and Turin.

Report Badoglio Threatens to Flee

LONDON — (INS) — Marshal Pietro Badoglio has threatened to leave Rome and take refuge in a neutral country if revolutionary movements do not cease, the Fighting French news agency reported from the Italian frontier today.

Raid on Rome Called 'the Tops'

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA — (INS) — The American aerial attack on Rome was officially declared today to have been the most successful daylight operation of the war.

More than 700 American bombers took part in the attack, a spokesman said.

Original reports indicated only five were lost.

Rommel Reported Arriving In Greece

LONDON —(AP)— Coinciding with reports from Turkey that German forces have seized direct military command from Italian troops throughout Greece, the Berlin radio said today that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, former Axis commander in North Africa, had arrived at Salonika.

Greece, gateway to the Balkans and a possible invasion route to Germany, has been the target of recent Allied aerial blows aimed at knocking out her Axis-held airports, and a heavy attack recently was launched against the island of Crete just off the southeast coast.

in the area was expected to be heavy.

The Little Miami river was at bank level throughout most of the valley. Greenville had minor difficulties with power failures during the night.

Wind damaged several army gliders at the Wilmington army glider base. Many trees were knocked down throughout the area.

The Finley hotel at Blanchester was damaged by fire, but no official estimate of the loss was made.

In the eastern section of Ohio near St. Clairsville and Bridgeport two were dead. They were the 7-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Butts of Wheeling, W. Va., and Dr. David W. Medill, of Martins Ferry.

The Willow Grove coal mine near Bellaire shut down and 600 men were made idle when flood waters damaged a power substation. The Florance mine of the Y. and O. coal company near Martins Ferry was expected to close because of lack of railroad transportation.

Railroad traffic was rerouted near Martins Ferry when two bridges on the Pennsylvania railroad's Pittsburgh - Chicago line washed out.

The state highway department reported that a temporary span would be in operation near Lansing on Route 40 today. A highway bridge there was washed out. Debris littered most of the roads in the area.

Ten of the dead in Texas were members of the crew of the government sea-going hopper dredge "Galveston" which was anchored in Bolivar Roads and was blown onto the jetties. Army engineers recovered the bodies. They said that the other 45 members of the crew had been rescued.

The others reported dead were a man drowned in Port Arthur, a child drowned in Houston, and two Negroes crushed by falling debris in Galveston.

Storm damage in Houston alone was estimated at $6,000,000 while the American Rice Growers association reported the Texas gulf coast rice crop suffered a loss of $2,000,000. Galveston's property damage was placed at $2,000,000 and water stood hip-deep in the downtown district.

Power and communication lines were broken in the storm area, and several communities were reported isolated Galveston faced a drinking water shortage as power used to pump water failed.

ODT to Present Merger Plan to City Taxi Firms

morrow's meeting, said the company owners would continue to hold their own cars and employ their drivers. By having headquarters at the same place, drivers for any of the five companies could be dispatched in response to a call and instructed to pick up other passengers in the same part of town, Reichert said.

All firms would charge the same rates and would operate under one manager. Each of the five companies would contribute to the maintenance of the central office, paying according to the number of taxis operated.

Reichert said he knew of no other city in Ohio where this plan has been placed into effect, but he was sure it could be made to operate here "if the taxi owners and the public work together."

Representatives of the ODT office in Canton will be here for the session Friday afternoon. On recent check-ups of the taxi situation in Mansfield, the ODT found that "too many trips are being made to haul one passenger," Reichert said.

meet approximately half of the airport land cost from the general fund, and to issue bonds for the rest of the estimated $100,000 needed to acquire 1,000 acres north of the present airport.

Shultz said there was no chance that the salary question can be settled in time for action by council at the August meeting next Tuesday night, although council hopes to have an airport financing plan ready by that time.

As chairman of the finance committee, Porch said council would be interested tonight in learning from Auditor Kelley just how much can be taken from the general fund for the airport and to what extent the city can issue bonds for the remaining cost.

Mayor Locke said today that council probably will hear a request at next week's meeting for removal of the three parking meters on West Fourth in front of the postoffice to open that area to free parking for five minutes for postoffice patrons.

The parking meters removed from Fourth street would be placed on North Diamond street between Third and Fourth streets, the mayor said. The change in parking regulations in the postoffice area would bring Fourth street parking in line with that on Mulberry street beside the postoffice where free parking is permitted for brief periods.

SUPPORT SMUTS

South Africans Back Premier In National Election.

CAPETOWN— (INS) — An overwhelming majority of South Africans support the war policy of Premier Jan Christiaan Smuts, according to latest returns today in the national elections.

Anti-war candidates of the Nationalist party won only 10 seats so far, against 61 for the premier's united party.

Returns up to a late hour also gave the Dominion party seven seats, the Labor party two and the Independents one.

Seventy-seven local pro-war candidates have been returned to office thus far.

FDR DEMANDS KNOCKOUT OF CRACKING FOE

Declares All Axis Leaders, Including Ex-Duce, Must Be Punished.

suggested harder work on the daily job, the fullest possible attention to food production, and purchase of war bonds to the limit.

Optimistic throughout, the president singled out the shipping situation for his most glowing description of the U. S. war output. It was so good, he said, that coffee rationing was ending now, as of last night. Despite the demands of the battlefronts, enough vessels had been found to haul great quantities of the national beverage from South America. More sugar is in store, too.

Mr. Roosevelt combined these home front phrases with talk of battles, explaining that "no one can draw a blue pencil down the middle of a page and call one side 'the fighting front' and the other side the 'home front.' The two are inexorably tied together."

He paid high tribute to the Russians. Their success has shown, he said, that "it is dangerous to make a prophecy about them—a fact forcibly brought home to that mystic master of strategic intuition, Herr Hitler."

Then he said the United States should always be "glad to be a good neighbor and a sincere friend" of Russia which "in saving itself is thereby helping to save all the world from the Nazi menace."

His reference to ill-starred Mussolini was brief, but pointed. The duce "and his Fascist gang will be brought to book and punished for their crimes," the president declared.

"We will have no truck with Fascism . . . we will permit no vestige of Fascism to remain."

He said "we are helping the Italian people in Sicily" and will continue to help Italians reconstitute their government as they want it —there will be no pillage or starvation—conquered peoples will be restored "to the dignity of human beings entitled to freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want, freedom from fear."

If that is "crazy altruism or starry-eyed dreaming," Mr. Roosevelt said he was "sorry."

Succinctly, he jabbed at the Japanese.

"We are pushing the Japs around from the Aleutians to New Guinea. We have taken the initiative and we are not going to let go of it. . . . The Japs have lost more planes and more ships than they have been able to replace."

Meanwhile, the president declared, this war of attrition is pushing the Japanese back from their over-extended lines from Burma and Siam to the Dutch East Indies, Australia and Guadalcanal.

There's good reason to believe, he declared, that the Japanese are too short of ships and planes to defend such outposts. Now the Allies are driving to positions from which to hit the Japanese mainland from all directions, he said.

"If the Japanese are basing their future plans on a long period in which they will be permitted to consolidate and exploit their conquered resources," he said, "they had better start revising their plans now. I give that to them merely as a helpful suggestion."

He kept coming back to the need for all-out effort here and used this channel to touch on the possible length of the war.

"The length of the war will depend upon the uninterrupted continuance of all-out effort on the fighting fronts and here at home," he said.

Referring critically to published "guess work" on dates, he said he had noted forecasts that we will win the war this year, and that the conflict will still be going on in 1949—a year mentioned by Vice Admiral Frederick Horne the other day.

(Horne told a press conference the navy was preparing for a war of that length, but emphasized that it was merely a matter of being ready for any eventuality.)

Both extremes of optimism and pessimism on the duration "are wrong," he said.

"We still have to defeat Hitler and Tojo on their own home grounds. . . . No one pretends that this will be an easy matter," Mr. Roosevelt asserted.

"We shall not settle for less than total victory. That is the determination of every American."

He said he would speak again in a few weeks on domestic problems such as manpower and food, with suggestions for congress.

WACs In 'Zoot Suits' Wait for Chow In England

Dressed in fatigue uniforms, which they have dubbed "zoot suits," U. S. Army WACs stand in formation, above, with their mess kits while they wait to get their first chow at their new camp somewhere in England. They no longer worry about the effect of food on their figures because hard work takes care of those. A large unit of the WAC reached England recently.

Offers 6-Point Plan To Aid Fighters

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt sketched last night the broad outlines of a program which he said the administration was working out to keep soldiers from being mustered out after the war "to a place on a bread line or a corner selling apples."

He said that was only part of the problem of demobilizing America "but the members of the armed forces have been compelled to make greater economic sacrifice and every other kind of sacrifice than the rest of us, and are entitled to definite action to help take care of their special problems."

For the immediate problems of the demobilized serviceman the president proposed:

1. Enough mustering-out pay to cover "a reasonable period of time between his discharge and the finding of a new job."

2. Unemployment insurance if the individual registers with the United State Employment Service and "no job is found after diligent search."

3. Opportunity for further education or trade training at government expense.

4. Credit on unemployment compensation and federal old age and survivors insurance "as if they had continued their employment in private industry."

5. "Improved and liberalized provisions for hospitalization, rehabilitation and medical care" for the disabled.

6. "Sufficient" pensions for the disabled.

Clears Program On Housing Plans For Mansfield

Clarifying the procedure under which applications for war-time housing projects are handled, Lester Redding, representing the Home Owners Loan corporation in the Mansfield area, pointed out today that the HOLC leases residence properties and converts them into additional home units, while the Federal Housing administration program permits owners to do their own building and remodeling.

Both the HOLC and FHA plans are under the supervision of the National Housing administration which has opened the way in Mansfield for the construction of new home units and the conversion of present residence properties into homes for two or more war worker families, Redding said.

Redding deals with architects and builders under the HOLC program, assigning architects to jobs. He said he had nothing to do with architectural planning.

Applications for priorities for new homes and conversion jobs under the FHA plan go directly to the FHA office in Cleveland. If approved, building materials will be released for the construction. Prospective builders who need funds for the work may be able to obtain an FHA loan through their bank or building and loan association.

Providing for 130 additional dwelling units in the Mansfield area, the HOLC program is being handled in Mansfield by the C. D. Huff Real Estate agency and in Shelby by S. H. Knapp. They negotiate with owners for residence properties before the government leases the homes, converts them into larger units, and rents them to war workers.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Mother-In-Law of Wendell L. Willkie Stricken at 81.

RUSHVILLE, Ind.—(INS)—Mrs. Cora Wilk, 81, mother-in-law of Wendell L. Willkie, died early today a few days before a scheduled visit to her home by the 1940 Republican presidential nominee.

She died of a heart attack after being in ill health for some time. However, friends had reported her in an improved condition yesterday.

Willkie, who owns five farms in Rush county, spent several weeks of the 1940 campaign at Mrs. Wilk's home, and had intended to come to Rushville early in August for a visit.

Mrs. Willkie, one of two daughters, was informed of the death by telephone. She and her husband were in New York.

20 KILLED AS BIG AIRLINER CRASHES, BURNS

Two Survive Fall of Plane In Wild Kentucky Area; Baby Among Victims.

were not immediately announced.

The two survivors of the American Airlines crash in Kentucky had been brought to a Bowling Green hospital. They were:

1st Lieut. Glen W. Fellows, 5th Flying Group, ferrying division, air transport command, Love Field, Dallas, Tex.

S. K. Hoffman, 41, chief engineer for the Lycoming Division of Aviation, Inc., Williamsport, Pa.

Fellows was in serious condition from burns on the face and hands and leg injuries.

The plane, which took off from Louisville at 9:54 p. m., for the run to Nashville, crashed without warning shortly after 10 p. m., Fellows said.

The federal emergency landing field at Smith's Grove contacted the airliner shortly before the crash and nothing further was heard from the flight until farmers living near Trammel reported the accident to Bowling Green.

Fellows and Hoffman were thrown clear of the wreckage. Hoffman apparently was not hurt seriously. Fellows walked nearly a mile to a farmhouse to get help.

J. H. Claypool, one of seven farmers who brought Fellows and Hoffman to the hospital here, said that he heard the plane shortly before it crashed.

"It seemed like the plane was flying high when it came over my farm in the dark," Claypool said. "Suddenly it made a loud screaming noise and then it crashed."

State police sent a squad of officers to the scene and reported that the country was so wild that two-horse wagons would be needed to bring out the bodies.

Fellows and Hoffman were brought to Bowling Green in an automobile after the farmers were notified of the location of the wreckage by the army officer. Both were conscious.

"The first I knew that something was wrong was when the plane went into a dive without warning," Hoffman said. "I might have been knocked out for a few moments, but I don't believe I lost consciousness."

Immediately after the accident, the plane caught fire and first reports from the scene said the bodies of the victims were burned. Information was sketchy because all officers at Scottsville and Bowling Green left for Trammel immediately.

The Smith's Grove landing field reported that the wreck occurred about 25 miles south of there on the Warren-Allen county line, in an isolated area with poor communications facilities. There were no telephone lines to Trammel from Scottsville or Bowling Green.

American airlines officials at Louisville said only the last names of those aboard the plane were available from their passenger list.

A number of army and navy men and a veteran American Airlines pilot who accompanied the flight on a routine observation check were among those killed.

Preliminary reports did not indicate the cause of the crash, the airlines said, but it was reported that the plane burst into blames.

A former airline stewardess and her baby were among those killed.

The survivors, Glenn Fellows of Dallas, Tex., and S. K. Hoffman, no address, were taken to Bowling Green, Ky., hospital, and are expected to live.

The plane had left Louisville at 9:54 p. m. (CWT) on what is known as flight 63 nothing further was heard of it until the crash was reported at 10:30 p. m.

The list of dead, as identified by the company thus far, were:

Neelan O. Hall, warrant officer stationed at Long Beach, Calif.

Lieut. George W. Turrill of Love Field, Dallas, Tex.

Tech. Sgt. William N. Lightfoot of Love Field, Dallas, Tex.

Lieut. Mark Rainsford, stationed at Dayton, Ohio, husband of Elizabeth Dodge Rainsford, Riverdale, N. Y.

Roger Ingraham of Medina, Ohio.

W. K. Cooper of Williamsport, Pa.

Harold Caminez of Williamsport, Pa.

Lieut. Gordon D. Richter of Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

H. D. Cameron of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, employe of General Tire and Rubber company, Akron.

R. H. Anderson, Vultee Aircraft employe, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Lucy Beasley of Nashville, Tenn., and infant child.

Eugene Lebenguth of Nashville, Tenn.

A Lieutenant Ogletree of Dayton, Ohio.

P. A. Rauf of Cleveland, Ohio.

J. B. Mahoney, Santa Monica, Calif., a tool company representative who boarded the plane at Louisville.

In addition to Capt. Stiller of Pittsburgh, Pa., pilot of the plane, crew members included first officer R. M. McClure of Norfolk, Va.; Capt. B. A. Carpenter of Cincinnati, Ohio, and stewardess Josephine Kane, all operating from Cleveland.

Civilian Shot In Near Riot, Sailor Nabbed

CLEVELAND —(INS)— As his victim was reported in "fair" condition at City hospital today, Charles Johnson, 19, a sailor from San Diego, Cal., was held by police, charged with shooting with intent to kill.

The shooting occurred near a west side bar where 15 sailors and five or six civilians participated in a near riot. Five police squad cars were called to break up the fighting.

Edwin L. Hoag, 31, the sailor's victim, was said to have entered the argument when Johnson and Charles Huntley, both machinist's mates, insulted Hoag's wife. Huntley was released after questioning by police, who said the bar where the riot took place had been recommended placed on the out-of-bounds list for military men.

The Woman Behind the Man Behind the Gun

WOMEN are contributing to Victory in countless ways which, while not as spectacular as the work of our men in the Army, Navy and Air Force, is every bit as essential.

Many Fuller Dealers are serving in the armed forces, and women have taken over their business of selling Fuller Brushes. In this new occupation they are serving the war effort on the home front. Because they are thoroughly familiar with housekeeping problems, they are well equipped to advise how to use Fuller Brushes to best advantage.

Fuller Brushes meet an essential war time need. They contribute to health, cleanliness, and sanitation. War workers need these time-and-labor saving housekeeping servants more than ever before.

To supply the Armed Forces is our first duty. To supply the requirements of our home customers is an obligation we are endeavoring to meet.

President Roosevelt's Report

MUCH GROUND was covered in President Roosevelt's half-hour talk last night and the time was given largely to making a report of progress, and of the present war situation, which he views with optimism but not overconfidence.

Emphasis was again placed on the United Nations' demand for "unconditional surrender" by Italy and complete wipe-out of the Fascist regime in that country.

In urging all-out civilian co-operation with the war effort the president sought to obliterate any assumed line of demarcation between the fighting front and the home front, and placed equal responsibility on all citizens to aid, to the extent of their ability, in winning the war.

An outline of tentative plans for post-war return to civilian life of men and women in the armed services was presented as an important part of the problem of reconverting wartime America to a peacetime basis, with hope expressed that congress will help in having plans ready to meet this need in advance, "instead of waiting to do a hasty, inefficient and ill-considered job at the last moment."

Most urgent appeal of the president was that there be no let-down of effort until total victory has been won. "It is not too much to say," he warned, "that we must pour into this war the entire strength and intelligence and will power of the United States."

Public Meeting Friday Night

QUITE PROPERLY, the non-partisan Mansfield League of Women Voters is to serve as the sponsoring group for tomorrow night's public meeting with Congressman J. Harry McGregor, to be held in the common pleas court room at the court house, starting at 8 o'clock.

Mr. McGregor comes to Mansfield for the week-end, not as a member of a political party but as the Seventeenth district's representative in congress, and as such he represents ALL of the people in this district, regardless of their political affiliation.

We believe it to be Mr. McGregor's sincere desire to give information and to discuss subjects of public interest with citizens of this district, also to learn their views on various national issues.

Congressman McGregor is to be in Mansfield Friday and Saturday and will be at the court house each of these days to meet citizens of city and county who have anything in mind that they would like to discuss with him.

The Friday evening meeting will offer an excellent opportunity for what can be made a highly informative question-and-answer period.

There's a Reason for Rationing

RATIONING of gasoline, or any other commodity, can be justified only on the basis of first requirement being to supply war needs, with only the surplus made available for other purposes.

To be cheerfully accepted by the public there must be a feeling of assurance that no preferential treatment is accorded in administration of rationing regulations and that special concessions in the form of "B" and "C" books are gained only by show of need for necessary travel in excess of "A" limits.

Use of gasoline beyond actual needs, or in quantities made available by subterfuge, can be interpreted only as failure on the part of offenders to recognize the great importance of conserving this fuel for war purposes.

When individual users of more gasoline than they really need, stop to think that it is the gasoline NOT used in Mansfield and elsewhere in the United States that made it possible to win in North Africa, to invade Sicily, to carry on continuous bombing raids over Germany and to intensify the warfare against Japan, there will be less non-essential driving and fewer requests for extra allowances because of sometimes fictitious "sickness."

Considering Curfew Ordinance

MAYOR LOCKE has asked city council to study the need for what is known as a "curfew" ordinance, as a means of combatting the recently developed tendency of scores of young children to roam the streets far into the night.

Probability is that this habit extends to only a small percentage of Mansfield's children, who lack parental supervision and are allowed to "run wild."

It appears that if members of council are to really "study the need" for legislation of this sort it will be necessary for them to stay up to such an unaccustomed hour as midnight, and thereafter, in order to see for themselves the extent to which children in the lower teen age parade the streets and behave themselves until unseasonably late hours.

If, after investigation, it is considered advisable to pass a curfew ordinance as a means of reducing juvenile delinquency, there will be no justification for considering it a reflection on Mansfield's well behaved children, any more than laws against other misbehavior reflects on non-offenders.

It is regretable that there is apparent need for such an ordinance—blame seems to rest more heavily on parental delinquency than upon the children who constitute the "problem."

Brakes Against Inflation

THE WAR LABOR BOARD, which is a friend of labor just as much as it is a friend of capital, explains that it must hold the lid against inflation. "The present-day problems of our domestic economy," it says, "are becoming so serious and critical that the board must insist that labor make wage sacrifices."

Yet in very few cases is there any actual "sacrifice" in holding wages to a reasonable balance with salaries and living costs. The sacrifice will come if such balance is lost, and prices soar beyond control.

Probably having put his spectacles aside for the nonce, Jack Warwick, Toledo Blade paragrapher, confidently asserts: "We don't believe there are any painted legs."

After all her recent exciting experiences Orphan Annie will probably be glad to settle down for a little quiet—but not too quiet.

That new agency, "AMGOT," sounds like something Hitler might say in one of his flamboyant moments.

Expect Last Stand Defense Move By Hitler In Bid for Stalemate

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

ITALY'S dismal predicament and its far-reaching moral effect are likely to make the way of transgressor Hitler exceedingly hard in the not distant future.

The way things now are developing it wouldn't be surprising to see the Nazi chief attempt the major operation of making a sweeping withdrawal on all fronts to restricted boundaries which he would try to defend against the Allies—come one, come all. Strengthened by this consolidation he would battle for a stalemate, hoping not only to save the reich but salvage some of his ill-got gains.

The length of time which must elapse before the "All Highest" undertakes such a last-stand move obviously depends on how hard the Allies are able to push him. That in turn hinges on the speed with which the Anglo-American brotherhood is able to clean up the Italian situation and strike elsewhere.

In yesterday's column I pointed out the great threat which would be created to the present German battle-line in Russia if the western Allies should follow the Italian collapse with an invasion of the Balkans.

A successful drive up the Balkan peninsula would force the Nazis to undertake the terribly dangerous feat of pulling back their entire front, assuming that Soviet pressure was maintained.

It's most unlikely that this could be achieved without corresponding withdrawals in western Europe. Hitler's position would be so precarious on the eastern front during his retreat that he wouldn't dare leave his forces scattered throughout the occupied areas of the west.

Moreover, we are reminded of another circumstance by British Prime Minister Churchill who told a cheering house of commons:

"The spirit of revolt rises higher in all subjugated lands. German rule is maintained from the North Cape of Norway to the Island of Crete only by hideous and ruthless cruelty, reprisals and massacres."

THE GREEKS, the Yugoslavs, the Czechoslovakians, the Poles, the French, the Belgians, the Dutch, the Norwegians—all these tortured folk are merely waiting for the signal to throw themselves on their oppressors. Indeed, Yugoslav guerrilla forces never have ceased to wage bitter war on the invaders, and the ferocity of these attacks has increased with the weakening of Italy.

The idea of Hitler withdrawing to a restricted area for final defense isn't new. Military observers long have foreseen its inevitability when the Germans got hard pressed. The fuehrer, perhaps on the insistence of his high command, has had his final defenses prepared.

The first stage of a general withdrawal in Russia presumably would be to the line of the river Dnieper, as remarked yesterday. However, if things were going badly with the Germans this would be only an intermediate stop, for their final destination would cary them at least into Poland.

On the western front, Hitler is said to have had the two vast and "invulnerable" fortified lines with which the war started—the French Maginot and the German westwall—prepared for the defense of the fatherland. Many other strategic strong points have been got ready for the show-down.

It remains to be seen whether Hitler will make his withdrawals while he still is strong or wait until he absolutely is driven to it. As Churchill remarked in his speech, the "German national strength is still massive."

"If the fuehrer should act soon, and be able to make these difficult changes without disaster, he certainly would present a formidable front. That's where the Allied air navies would come in, to crack the interior of his fortress and hew an entrance for our armies.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, July 29, 1923.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Madison avenue Methodist church in New York city, preached at First Methodist church here.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vandervort, West Fifth and Bowman streets, were injured in auto accident near Massillon.

Knox gasoline station, West Fourth street, was burglarized and $55 stolen.

Dr. Orlando C. Wilson, 73, formerly of Mansfield, died at his home in Ottawa

Police detectives, Robinson and Lauer, raided gambling place in north part of city.

Listen World! By ELSIE ROBINSON

No Music, No Party

I WAS "BORN UNION." My father, following the path of the California pioneers as a penniless lad, had a deep knowledge and experience with the poor man's lot and his exploitation by his richer brother. From this sprang a passionate devotion to working men whatever their station.

As a child I was steeped in that devotion. I knew the story of Labor from the days of the pyramids on. I saw men working for 12 hours a day, six days a week and no overtime or vacations. Three dollars a day was a fat wage in frontier times.

Besides this I had first hand knowledge of a labor family's destiny. We had books in our home and flowers massed to its doorsill, but our shoes were resoled over and over until the uppers were in rags.

I did not know the feel of lace nor the taste of whole cream. We lived sufficiently and grew lustily because our parents were good managers. But we went on half rations in the first great railroad strike of the 90's and the march of Coxey's army was no fairy tale to us. There was rarely a meal which some ragged stranger did not share.

I was born union. I was union. I am union still. My penniless father left me the cause of unionism when he died as my only heritage—a fighting blade. Today, as always, the pity and fury of the working man's struggle for a fair deal burn in me.

But at last I am forced to protest that unionism run amuck can be as mad a dog as any phase of rabid capitalism or tyranny.

ALL of this is a prelude to something which happened in San Francisco. I give the bare facts. A certain large jewelry store incurred the enmity of the Musician's union. This store, which deals largely in diamonds, is putting on a promotion campaign, for obvious reasons. One part of it was a theater party, with 5,000 free tickets for owners of wedding rings bought at the store.

At this party it planned to use no music—the entertainment program consisting of its regular non-musical broadcast program supplemented by other talented stage people.

The facts seem simple so far. But guess again! Immediately, if not sooner, the store was informed by the Musicians' Union that the party could not proceed unless it employed an orchestra of 20 pieces. It didn't want a 20-piece orchestra. It didn't even want a ukelele. It made no matter to the Musicians' union. The store would either employe 20 pieces or else—!

The store refused to accept the union's dictates. As a result it had to move its party from the War Memorial Opera House, which had housed many another big show of a similar nature. The Musicians' union said nix.

Next the store went to the Civic auditorium, bought and paid for by the taxpayers of San Francisco and theoretically without Union affiliation. Whereupon slam bang—the store received the Musicians' union ultimatum. Instead of a 20-piece orchestra they now would be required to use a 30-piece orchestra!

So what?

I don't know what. But I'm asking every good American, including particularly those in good union standing, just how this adds up. And what's it going to do to labor and liberty if it continues.

Italian-Americans Smuggled Into Sicily Made Ready for Invasion

WASHINGTON—Unsung U. S. heroes who contributed heavily to Mussolini's downfall were Italian-American boys smuggled into Sicily several weeks before U. S. troops landed.

How they got ashore must remain a military secret. But the fact that they got there is now recognized as a part of military operations, just as the advance landing of Lt. Gen. Mark Clark in North Africa, carrying bags of U. S. gold.

These Italian-Americans were especially trained in the dangerous, delicate job of winning over military garrisons in advance of a landing force. In Sicily they had the advantage of speaking the language and being able to visit the homes of their relatives, few of whom loved Mussolini. From there they were able to work around to various military leaders.

It has long been known that Italian military leaders were of two types. One is the professional soldier like Field Marshal Badoglio, who was in the army before Mussolini's time and has no love for the Fascists. Also he has no love for the Nazis, and so was not too difficult to win over to the Allied side.

Other type of Italian military leaders is the Fascist Blackshirt, who rose through favors from Il Duce, but who usually is susceptible to coin of the realm. Presumably U. S. advance scouts were supplied with what Gen. Clark took with him in advance into North Africa.

At any rate, expert advance work by patriotic Italian-Americans, plus the popularity of the United States in Sicily, contributed to one of the most bloodless landing expeditions in history.

Also the psychological shock of the headlong U. S. rush through Sicily was what toppled Mussolini off his thorny throne.

Gen. Giraud's Waterloo.

GEN. GIRAUD was shown all the sights of Washington during his stay here, including the war department's massive Pentagon building, rated as the largest office building in the world.

After the French commander had been led through the labyrinch of Pentagon corridors to general staff headquarters, and later out into the sunlight, he was asked what he though of the place.

"Well," remarked Gen. Giraud, "I've escaped from two German prisons, but I could never get out of this building."

FDR-Murray Fireworks.

SOME hot words were exchanged between the president and CIO leader Phil Murray when Murray and other members of the AFL-CIO combined war council called at the White House to discuss wage and price controls.

Murray bluntly charged the president with going back on his promise to roll back prices to Sept. 15, 1942.

"You haven't done what you said you were going to do, Mr. President," the CIO chief declared. "Labor is getting tired of being a football."

Obviously nettled by the charge that he hadn't kept his word, the president pressed his lips together, then reminded Murray in frigid tones that if he could get any better co-operation from congress on price subsidies and other issues than he (Roosevelt) had received, Murray was welcome to try.

Furthermore, he added, acidly, no administration had done more to improve living conditions for the working man than his own.

"I'm not trying to censure your administration," countered Murray, "but the record is pretty clear in this case. The War Labor board is doing all in its power to hold down labor, but these other fellows, like Byrnes (James Byrnes, chief of the Office of War Mobilization) and Brown (Prentiss Brown, head of the OPA) aren't doing anything about controlling the prices the working man has to pay.

"I realize that you've got your hands full running this war, but the time has come to speak out about some of those around you who are supposed to be handling the domestic situation. No one seems to be concerned about increases in the price of things the working man has to buy. The OPA has been letting prices run wild. But every time labor asks for an adjusted increase in wages, there's a roar of protest."

The CIO leader launched into a scorching tirade against Byrnes for "vetoing legitimate requests by labor" for pay increases, intimating that the OWM chief was looking after the interests of management in industrial wage disputes.

"I resent your remarks about Jimmy Byrnes," the president shot back angrily. He added that Byrnes wasn't grinding any axes for anyone and that he was doing a patriotic job to curb inflation to the best of his ability.

The fireworks ended at this point, but Roosevelt and Murray didn't fall over each other saying goodbye when the conference adjourned.

Dewey's Motto.

REPUBLICAN boosters of Tom Dewey say he already has chosen the man who will manage his presidential campaign if things look propitious six months hence. He is Edwin F. Jaeckle, Republican state chairman of New York. Jaeckle recently sold his home in Buffalo preparatory to throwing himself full tilt into the drive to sell Dewey as the 1944 nominee.

A nationwide tour to line up convention delegates is being planned, but meantime Jaeckle has been busy with some minor chores. Recently he was host at a cocktail party in Washington for various GOP congressmen, especially the Ohio delegation, probably aimed at cutting the ground from Ohio's colorless presidential hopeful, Gov. John W. Bricker.

Enemy Searchlights Turned on Ship Approaching Sicily But No Shots Fired.

WITH THE U. S. NAVY IN THE MEDITERRANEAN—(By Wireless—Delayed)—As long as this ship of ours sails the high seas, even after every member of the present crew has been transferred away, I'm sure the story of the searchlights will linger on in the wardroom and forecastle like a written legend.

It is the story of a few minutes when the fate of this ship hung upon the whim of the enemy. For some reason which we probably will never know the command to obliterate us was never given.

Our great, bad moment occurred just as we had ended our long invasion voyage from North Africa and stopped at our designated place off the south coast of Sicily. Our ship was about three and a half miles from shore which in the world of big guns is practically hanging in the cannon muzzle.

Two or three smaller ships were in closer than we but the bulk of our invasion fleet stood far out to sea behind us. Our admiral had the reputation of always getting up close where he could have a hand in the shooting and he certainly ran true to form throughout this invasion.

WE'D BEEN STOPPED only a minute when big searchlights blinked on from the shore and began to search the waters. Apparently the watchers ashore had heard some sounds at sea. The lights swept back and forth across the dark water and after a few exploratory sweeps one of them centered dead upon us and stopped. Then as we held our breaths the searchlights, one by one, came down with their beams upon our ship. They had found their mark.

All five of them stretching out over a shore line of several miles pinioned us in their white shafts as we sat there as naked as babies and just as scared. I would have been glad to bawl like one if it would have helped, for this searchlight business meant the enemy had us on the block. We not only were discovered, we were caught in a funnel from which there was no escaping.

We couldn't possibly move fast enough to run out of their beams. We were within simple and easy gunning distance. We were a sitting duck. We were stuck on the end of five merciless poles of light. We were utterly helpless.

"When that fifth searchlight stopped on us all my children became orphans," one of the officers said later.

Another one said, "The straw that broke my back was when the anchor went down. The chain made so much noise you could have heard it in Rome."

A third one said, "The fellow standing next to me was breathing so hard I couldn't hear the anchor go down. Then I realized there wasn't anybody standing next to me."

We got all set to shoot at the lights but then we waited. Our admiral decided there was some possibility they couldn't see us through the slight haze although he was at a loss to explain why all five lights stopped on us if they couldn't see us.

We had three alternatives—to start shooting and thus compel return fire; to up anchor and run for it; or to sit quiet like a mouse and wait in terror. We did the latter.

I don't know how long the five lights were on us. It seemed like hours. It may have been five minutes. At any rate at the end of some believably long time one of them suddenly blinked out. Then one by one, seemingly erratic and with no purpose in mind, the others went out, too. The last one held us a long time as though playing with us. Then it too went out and we were once again alone in the blessed darkness. Not a shot had been fired.

ASSAULT boats were speeding past us all the time and a few minutes later they hit the beach. The searchlights flashed on again but from then on they were busy fanning the beach itself. It didn't take our attacking troops long to shoot the lights out from close range.

I'm not sure some of them weren't just turned out and left off for good. We've never yet found out for sure why the Italian big guns on the shore didn't let us have it. Several of us inquired around when we got ashore after daylight.

We never found the searchlight men themselves but from other Italian soldiers and citizens of the town we learned that the people ashore were so damn scared at whatever was about to attack them from out there on the water that they were afraid to start anything.

I guess I'm always going to have to love the Italians, for anybody else behind those searchlights and guns that night and we of this ship would be telling our searchlight yarn to St. Peter by now.

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THRESHING TIME

IT IS threshing time on Honey Creek. The community-owned outfit is busy every day that it does not rain. Labor is scarce, and the neighbors help each other.

Yesterday before the dew was off I heard teams and wagons moving to the place of work. The farmers are much in earnest, for great acreage of shocks still dots the hills and valleys of our countryside. Weather is uncertain, and every garnered field is that much food for the future.

The threshing machine is made of steel throughout, with a blower on the rear and an automatic feeder at the front. The threshed grain is elevated and weighed, then dropped in sacks, a bushel at each trip of the scales. The engine is a modern heavy gasoline tractor.

How much different the outfit than that used 40 years ago! Then men fed the machine by hand and cut twine-bound sheaves with a pen-knife. Nearly every farmer, then, put his wheat in the mow and threshed it from the floor. If space was a premium, large stacks of sheaves were built close to the sloping barn bridge. A canvas web, instead of a blower, elevated the chaff and straw to the finished strawstack behind the barn. The grain was sacked by hand in half bushel "stricten" measures.

But today I pitched sheaves on the laddered wagons much as I did in 1900. Perhaps the woodwork of the wagons is not so heavy and the wheels are lower—otherwise these wains creaked along in similar fashion as a rear wheel heaved across a boulder or the carriage descended into a draw or narrowed ditch. The odors from the shock had not changed, and the same fragrance, thick and pleasing, rose from the colony of wild cotton along the worm fence. I noticed the bitter smell of crushed ragweed among the thick young clover—the saline tang of sweaty horses—the stench of heavy hoofs against moist tender undergrowth. And when the massive load of sheaves, well rounded, stood high on the rolling land, I watched the driver draw tight the lines and speak to his trusty team. It was nearly eight. Long shadows of late afternoon painted a fantastic mirage of moving load and team.

Over to the west less than a mile, I heard another tractor pulling a combine through a field of dead ripe wheat. In spots the aging straw had lodged in tangled swirls. The rude uncouth combine was cutting and threshing the wheat as it moved along.

A truck followed at a distance, into which the contents of the hopper of the combine was poured, from time to time. No teams. No creaking wains. Just a tractor, a combine, and two men. The grain from 20 acres was stored, in a single day, at the village elevator.

I leaned on my fork, waiting for the next wagon to come into my field, and wondered what drastic changes will come to harvest fields ten years from now.

COME IN HANDY

SAN JOSE, Cal —(U.P.)— When, in the early days of the war, the Japanese scared coast citizens into the fear that they might be raided and showered with bombs, they really helped the United States in the winning of the war. The initial scare resulted in the immediate creation of an industry for the manufacture of stirrup pumps for putting out incendiary bombs and fires. The pumps are now in universal use for raising victory gardens.

DROWNINGS AT HOME SURPASS DEATHS AT SEA

4,600 Men Lost as Ships Go Down; 7,000 Perish in United States.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Subject to attack by airplane and submarine, and exposed to the dangers of mines, nevertheless casualties in the U. S. Merchant Marine were only half the number of persons accidentally drowned during a 20-month period just ended.

This fact was brought out by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The Merchant Marine listed 4,600 men dead or missing in the line of duty for the period from October, 1941 to June, 1943. During 1942 alone civilian drownings cost the nation around 7,000 lives.

While the staticians pointed out that the number of drownings in the Merchant Marine and the general population are not directly comparable, in view of the great disparity in the numbers of persons exposed to risk at sea and on land respectively, they do show the magnitude of the loss of life from drowning in this country year after year.

Figures compiled by the statisticians indicate that a very large proportion of the drownings in the United States occur among young men and boys on pleasure bent—swimming, boating, or just playing around in the water.

The peak of drownings is usually reached in July and numbers around 1,400 deaths. May, June and August are also bad months, says the statisticians, with death tolls of around 1,000 persons each.

They pointed out that a large number of drownings could be avoided if everyone would learn how to swim reasonably well and how to conduct himself while boating.

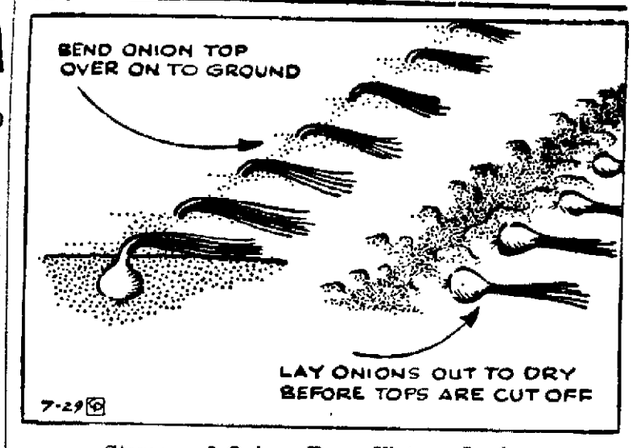
CHESTER'S 'DEATH CLASS'

CHESTER, Pa.—(U.P.)—A year ago 25 Chester boys were attending regular club meetings at the YMCA. Every member of the group except one joined the navy and now they comprise Chester's "death class"—all were reported dead or missing in action aboard the warship Juneau. William Elverson, rejected by the navy, is serving with the army overseas.

ABANDONED CAR

BERKELEY, Cal. —(U.P.)— Bill Leont, a Chinese, was on the way to his induction center when his car broke down. Deciding that he "was already in the army," he abandoned the car where it was and walked the remainder of the way. The police eventually towed it home for him.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Storage of Onions From Victory Garden.

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Association.

SINCE ONIONS are one of the most useful vegetables to come from the Victory garden, it is important to know how to harvest and store them correctly.

When onions are not pulled to be used as green onions, but are left in the ground to mature, the tops of the plants lop over as the bulbs reach their full growth. The accompanying Garden-Graph shows how the onion tops should be bent over to the ground, if they have not fallen over of their own accord, to encourage ripening. This can be done my hand, or more quickly by using a lawn roller or barrel.

The Garden-Graph also shows how the onions should be laid out to dry before the tops are cut off. This procedure is as follows: when the tops are pretty well dried down, pull the onions and let them lie in the sun and cure for a day or so. Then cut off the tops about an inch above the bulb. The onions then should be placed in slatted crates or baskets which will permit circulation of air around the onions.

The onions should be kept in a dry place until cold weather approaches, when they should be restored where they can be protected from freezing. The storage place for winter should be dry, dark and cold, but, of course, not freezing.

EASY-TO-FLY FAMILY PLANE NOW PLANNED

Low-Cost Craft Designed For Use By Average Person.

(By International News Service)

WICHITA, Kan.—Everyone anticipates the post-war world, but the Cessna Aircraft company of Wichita and Hutchinson, Kan., has insured its future with concrete plans to shift training personnel and manufacturing facilities to the production of the "Family Car of the Air."

Their's will be an aircraft the average person can buy, fly and use. Cessna officials state that any automobile driver can learn within a few hours to pilot the plane they have designed.

Since many have deterred from taking to the air through fear of accident, Cessna has planned a plane in which the average person may have complete confidence—a plane parents will feel safe in letting their teen-agers fly.

To produce this safe airplane the company started a research program to eliminate flying hazards. Their machine will incorporate safety factors far in advance of planes now offered to the public.

Company officials have planned their plane to be practical for both long and short trips, with a speed which will make possible trips of 500 to 600 miles in an afternoon.

Aviation leaders agree that a nation-wide system of route marking undoubtedly will be put into effect as soon as demand justifies it. The average person, it is stated, could fly a definite route any place in the country with but 15 minutes of instruction, following one system under serious consideration today in Washington.

It will be far simpler to land Cessna's future planes than to maneuver a sedan into a tight place today. Controls will be similar to auto controls, with a steering wheel which will permit the driver to fly very much the way he would drive a car.

The company predicts that within a few years landing strips will dot the nation so thickly that the air traveler will never be more than a few minutes away from one. When Mr. and Mrs. Average American take to the air, they will demand an adequate nation-wide system of landing strips and they'll get it, just as they got our fine highways after the automobile entered our transportation picture a few decades ago.

Last, but not least, the future family car of the air will be within the price range of today's better cars, with financing plans adapted to their purchase. Their upkeep will compare with that of the average automobile today and their operating economy will be superior; mileage per gallon will equal or better that of present cars and distances "as the crow flies" will be shorter than road distances, thus saving many actual miles of travel.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES INVALUABLE IN SOLVING VITAL WAR RIDDLES

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—From helping to build a two-ocean navy to supplying information on the use of honey as an anti-freeze, the National Archives is pulling no punches in serving the present war effort.

Through Archives records of former navy enlisted men, the navy was able to reach enough experienced personnel to supply 20 per cent of our two-ocean navy, a spokesman declared. And this is just one of the 237,000 reference services the Archives performed in 1942.

Other services provided the war and navy departments and other agencies with maps and photographs to help guide bombers to enemy harbor installations, electrical power developments, railway and highway bridges, and industrial facilities; information on inland waterways, natural resources, weather conditions, transportation and communication, and, indeed, about everything from 75 mm. guns to migration of shipbuilding labor in the last war.

The blue and red stamps that worry the average housewife so much and the whole rationing program of the Office of Price Administration is based on the Archives' records of the control of consumer goods during World War I, and records of consumers' goods industries assembled more recently by the NRA.

"You would scarcely think that records of daily measurements of the rapidity of the current and the height of the water in rivers would have cash value," an Archives spokesman said.

"Yet, recently, government engineers, by using the records in the National Archives, were helped to build a bridge with just the right margin of safety necessary to withstand the strength of flood waters."

The National Archives have also had a hand in military strategy and tactics, for the only photographs available to the war department of a group of important islands were found in the Archives files.

MANSFIELDER WEDS CALIFORNIA GIRL

Miss Mary Freidrich of Oakland Becomes Bride of John W. Fisher, Son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fisher of This City.

AVIATION CADET JOHN W. FISHER of this city took as his bride, Miss Mary Alice Freidrich of Oakland, Calif., before the altar of the St. Mary's Catholic church in New Haven, Conn., July 3, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. F. R. Halahan officiated.

Attending the couple was the bride's sister, Miss Janet Friedrich of Cincinnati and John D. Gallivan of Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, a close friend and classmate of Cadet Fisher.

At present the newlyweds will make their home in New Haven, where Cadet Fisher is attending Yale university.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Freidrich of 4288 Montgomery street, Oakland, Calif. She attended Iowa State college and is a graduate of the University of California.

Cadet Fisher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fisher, 19 Bradford avenue. He is a graduate of the St. Peter's high school. He attended St. Mary's university and graduated from Iowa State college in Ames, Iowa. Before entering the service, Cadet Fisher was employed as an engineer at the Goodyear Aircraft corporation in Akron.

Associates Entertain for Miss Schuttera

Employes of the Artwill dress shop entertained in honor of Miss Barbara Schuttera, bride-elect of Sgt. Herman H. Deter, Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Cliff Weimer, Millsboro road, with a porch party and 6:30 dinner.

When dinner was served, guests were seated at small tables covered with white dinner cloths and centered with lovely bouquets of fall flowers. Appointments were in fall shades matching the colors in the centerpieces.

Many miscellaneous gifts were presented to the bride-elect who will exchange nuptial vows with Sgt. Deter, Aug. 8 at 3 p. m. in the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church.

Miss Schuttera is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schuttera, Sunset boulevard. She is employed at the Artwill shop. Sgt. Deter is the son of Mrs. U. S. Deter of Galion. He is stationed at Camp Gordon, Ga.

The next party planned for Miss Schuttera will be given tonight by Miss Donna Mae Porter, Glendale boulevard.

Hats Come Under War Restrictions

American milliners can chalk up a major victory in their first engagement with wartime restrictions.

Fall hats, for the first time face to face with the WPB yardstick, emerge triumphantly as gay, untrammeled and wearable as in the piping days of unlimited fabrics.

Millinery designers, working under an entirely voluntary code of restrictions, have evolved a fall collection with no hint of wartime grimness, crammed with new silhouettes, designed to add excitement to the basic duration wardrobe.

Biggest news of the fall collections is the fact that the new hats fit the head and stay on without benefit of either elastics or hatpins. All designers stress headsize hats, present models that stay on in a high wind.

Sally Victor makes headlines with three new silhouettes: the Chetnik draped turban, inspired by the dashing headgear of the Yugoslavs; the "Da-Da" bonnet, which says yes in any language, and the Curvette, which is two hats in one—a halo of felt or embroidered velvet with a removable crown, to be worn all together for daytime, without the crown for evening.

John-Frederics goes Victorian with small, ladylike hats with a tin-type look. His favorite is a puffed version of the beret, pretied up with encrustations of beads or embroidery, sometimes embellished with feathers. He shows soft, casual felts with a folded paper bag look, presents a hat seamed in sections like a parachute, which ties under the chin. He shows lots of ostrich plumes, as do all the designers.

Lilly Dache likes a neat and tidy look about her hats for fall, but insists they must be feminine and gay. She shows many felts, lots of ribbon and satin hats, crocheted cotton with flickers of beads, furs and barnyard feathers. She likes the cloche, and the clip hat, both of which stay firmly on the head without hat pins or bands.

Florence Reichman introduces the crest hat and the milkmaid bonnet, both perfect with any hairdo, and Walter Florell shows small, pert fedoras and sailors in luxurious fabrics, all tipped sharply forward.

All designers feature colorful accessories to complement their hats and brighten up the new simple dresses. There are sequin-embroidered scarfs, to be worn outside fur coats, elaborate beaded or embroidered collars of felt or velvet, to match hats, and extravagant handbags made of everything from beaded felt to mink.

War bonnets of fall, 1943, add a touch of needed gaity to the wartime scene, make the basic wardrobe seem less basic.

Be Canny With Your Cosmetics

MME QUI VIVE

Rationing has been a revelation to many of us. We realize that we have been a nation of wasters. It is high time for us to economize, be thrifty.

Half worn shoes were thrown away. Now the cobbler shops are rushed with repair work. Leftovers from dinner were chucked out, instead of being made into appetizing dishes for next day's luncheons. Houses were overheated, then windows were opened, fuel oil wasted. It seems pretty senseless. We're getting along just as well, handing our savings over to Uncle Sam to help win the war.

Heretofore, millions of dollars were spent every year for cosmetics and the contents of many jars and boxes were partially used. We're not that silly now. We buy what we need, use these items sparingly. We're thankful that we are not deprived of our first aids to good looks. We're thankful for a lot of things that we took for granted. We're assuming our war time responsibilities, are the better for it.

Without protective creams we'd be in a pretty bad way. Lily white hands that hadn't even sewn a fine seam are washing dishes, doing laundry work, washing windows. Career girls are cultivating Victory gardens after hours. Women are doing rough work in factories. And creams are necessary to keep the hands soft and smooth.

A small amount of cream with plenty of friction is more beneficial than a lot of cream and no massage. Remember that when you are lubricating your complexion or your hands.

Don't forget that you get more for your money when you buy a large jar of cream. Keep it in a cool, dark place if possible. See that the cover is on tight so perfume will not be lost. The large jar saves labor and packing materials, hence can be sold for less than small jars that total the same content.

Save small pieces of toilet soap. Place them in a quart mason jar, fill the jar with boiling water, let stand three days before using and you will have an excellent liquid shampoo. Kitchen soap can be melted to be used for laundry work.

Perfumes can still be purchased, but many of the favorite old timers have disappeared. You can content yourself with sachets. The shops have them in silk balls with cord attached. Put one on each coat and dress hanger in your closet. Your wardrobe will become sweetly scented. Use the same fragrance for all of them. By mixing scents you may destroy them all.

Keep your nail lacquer tightly corked, also your hand lotions. Skimp and save. You are doing your duty by your country.

Spiced honey butter makes a delicious spread for toast, biscuits or pancakes. Mix together equal portions of butter, and strained honey, heat, add ¾ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon grated orange rind for each ½ cup of mixture. Serve warm, poured from small pitcher.

Talcott Home Scene of Final Nuptial Honor

Rehearsal dinner for members of the bridal party for the Steil-Neese wedding will be held tomorrow evening at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. On Saturday evening at 8:30 Miss Katherine Steil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Steil, Pinecrest, will exchange nuptial vows with Lieut. Robert Neese of Columbus, Miss., before the altar of the Grace Episcopal church.

Miss Steil has chosen as her attendants, Miss Joanna Neese of Columbus, O., sister of the bridegroom, who will be maid of honor; Miss Sterling Nettles of Asheville, N. C., and Miss Dorothy Tobin of Glenn Ridge, N. J., the latter two classmates of the bride-elect at Sweet Briar college, Virginia.

Timothy Neese, the bridegroom's brother, also of Columbus, O., will be best man. Following the wedding a reception will be held in the Mansfield-Leland hotel ballroom for 150.

Mrs. Fred Talcott, Vennum avenue, entertained last evening with the final pre-nuptial party for Miss Steil. The informal event was held at the Talcott home, Vennum avenue. Games were the diversion after which refreshments were served at small tables decorated with pastel appointments. The group surprised the bride-elect with a shower of miscellaneous gifts. Out-of-town guests were Miss Nettles and Miss Janet Kegg of New York City.

Prunes, pears and peaches combine nicely into a refreshing, nutritious salad for summer serving. Top with French dressing.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

The next half hour would have been most interesting and amusing if I could have relaxed from the suspense of listening for the telephone summons that would tell me Ruth Hayes had been called from Milner's privately listed telephone in the Lansfield.

Annie proved to be a most competent maid, and while her teaching technique was not of the best, I was able to observe her mannerisms and gait closely while pretending to be absorbed in the technical problems of bed making — and unmaking; of sweeping, dusting and wiping up floors. When it came my turn to work, I hurried through my tasks, with Annie standing over me vigilantly and correcting every little mistake with gusto.

Gives the Signal.

The housekeeper, with a keen sense of what I wished, interpolated a number of questions to the maid, and sent her on various small errands around the rooms. Finally, I felt that I had learned all I could absorb from Annie, not about work, but about the mannerisms and gait of a hotel maid, and with a feeling of relief, I put my hands up to my cap and adjusted it—the signal which the housekeeper had told me to use when I was through.

But it was fully two minutes later before she said: 'I think that will do now, Annie," and the maid looked at me with dubious eyes.

"Are you sure you'll remember everything?" she asked. "You've never worked at this before, have you?"

If the housekeeper had not been there, she probably would have said: "You're pretty green, ain't you?" I was sure of that, but I replied sedately.

"No, I've never worked in hotels before—just private," and felt my risibles twitch at the phrase, which I have so often heard.

"Maggie will get along," the housekeeper said. "I'll see to her. Thank you, Annie, and get back to your work now."

I drew a sharp breath of relief when she was out of the room, and the housekeeper looked at me with keen eyes.

Everything Ready.

"I thought you'd be jittery about that telephone," she said, "but there'll be nobody else in now, and the room's in order. Would you like to go through that drill now?"

"Yes, if you please," I answered, and then, pretending to be a guest, and giving me numberless little orders, she sent me to and fro, and kept me answering questions, for fully ten minutes.

When she paused, she looked at me with a gratifying look of admiration.

"That man Halloran was right," she declared. "You do know a lot about acting. You've got everything down pat. There's nothing else that I can teach you. Oh, wait a minute! You'll have to be taking carpet sweepers and linens and things up and down the hall. Let me show you where they are, and what you are to do."

She slipped the lock and set the door a bit ajar so that we could hear the telephone, and gave me another drill, careful to keep her voice down, and I think she watched as carefully as I did the door of 1720, behind which Ruth Hayes lay, though not, I was sure, with the same tension.

Housekeeper Approves.

"You'll do now," she approved at last. "But remember—keep your eyes half closed as if they hurt you, if she speaks to you. They're the only thing that can possibly give you away. Now, do you need me any longer?"

"No, thank you," I said, although I had secret qualms about her leaving me. "But would you mind just speaking to my husband in 1718 as you go, and asking him to come in here for a minute. He wanted to inspect my performance after you had drilled me."

She considered this request for an instant.

"I think it will be better," she decided finally, "if you go in there. This is a vacant room, and there would be no excuse for his coming in here, while he very well can summon you. That woman might be watching things, you know.

"I'll go and tell him to call 'Maid!' in a second tor two. Then you can hurry over there. While he's doing that, I'll call Dickson and tell him the call is to be switched to 1718 instead of 1722. And you might as well stay there in 1718, leaving the door a little ajar, so you can hear that woman if she callls you. There won't be any other calls. There's nobody in this wing on this floor except you and your husband, the three guards and the woman you're watching. So you won't have much work to do."

"That is probably a good thing," I told her, smiling. "I'm afraid I don't shine at all."

"On the contrary, I'll give you a job whenever you want to take it," she replied laughing, and then departed for Dicky's room.

She was back in an instant, going immediately to the telephone.

"Better go into the hall and pretend to be getting your stuff together," she directed, and as I did so Dicky called peremptorily from the door of his room: "Maid! Maid!"

Trying to Win the War With Charm

In spite of the most brutal war of our history, Uncle Sam seems much taken up with CHARM. Can it be that the old gentleman is not immune to the well-known weakness of elderly gentlemen, and is getting a bit soft in the head when it comes to the question of girls?

Riding downtown in Washington in a bus, I read the amazing headline on a fellow passenger's newspaper: "Charm School Course to Train 75,000 as Hostesses in D. C." Not the only one whose attention was arrested by that particular announcement, I head a middle-aged man, as he turned to a younger one in uniform, say:

"There's so much talk about Charm in Washington that I wouldn't be surprised if they started up a new Cabinet job—Secretary of Charm."

"Madam Perkins' would no longer be unique then, as the Charm Secretary would certainly be a lady."

"Not necessarily," the older man chimed in; "They'd probably confirm Ickes as Charm Secretary."

Well, any way you take it, there seems to be quite as much talk about Charm floating around Washington, as there is about winning the war. Even the Navy Department gave an official pat on the back to one of these Be Beautiful clinics, not long ago.

I lost no time in buying a duplicate paper where I read further than the War Hospitality Committee of the Recreation Service, Inc., had undertaken the education of 75,000 women in the district in the essentials of charm and military secrecy. Shades of Mata Hari! when did these two things go hand-in-hand?

My newspaper further revealed that twelve agencies, now on the eve of graduating their first 5000 accredited hostesses, have submitted them to the War Hospitality Headquarters Both girls and agencies indicated an unexpected enthusiasm and spirit of cooperation, said the U.S.O. director of the Y.W.C.A.

The reports pictured junior hostesses getting beauty tips from experts, brushing up on their dancing and etiquette, under the eyes of authorities on social behavior, and staging fashion shows to learn what styles most appealed to service men.

One group of girls was so anxious to take the course in charm, but could attend only between midnight and three A. M. Another report disclosed that some girls were getting instructions on buses bound for the Army camps.

This training, the report states, "will enable the hostesses to dispel any possible feeling of pessimism on the part of the service men who consult them about their problems."

When the girls have completed all the charm classes, and the point of saturation is reached, they will receive certification cards from the District Office of Civilian Defense.

But I ask, IS charm going to win the war?

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

ONE CAN BE AN ENTRY

AS BETWEEN two four-card suits, for an opening lead against a No Trump contract, the choice should usually fall upon the one which does not contain an ace or king. Keeping that card on the side may make it a valuable re-entry for bringing in a card which gets established in the weaker suit. If you lead the stronger suit, it usually has to do all of its own work, with no help from the other, which contains no card likely to be a re-entry.

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	1 NT

This deal got into several different contracts in a duplicate, with a number of 1-No Trump contracts bid as shown. Sound leading paid dividends in a peculiar way. Where South opened his club 4, to save the heart K as a possible re-entry, East took that trick, finessed the spade 10 and then the 9 to the Q. North returned the club 10, knocking out the A, and East then cashed the dummy's other three spades. That made only six tricks for him, however, and when he then led a diamond the defenders took the other tricks with top cards, setting him one.

Where a heart was led to the A and returned to the K, then a shift made to clubs, the declarer got the same two tricks in clubs and four in spades, plus one which had been set up for him in hearts. In other words, the leads away from heart honors proved costly, as they generally do except when setting up some long cards.

One declarer was beaten after a heart lead to the A because North switched at once to a club. His side therefore set up low club tricks before East could establish one in hearts. So the defenders there took one trick in spades and two in each other suit.

A child born on this day should be generously equipped for a rich, happy and dramatic life, both in business and romance.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 30.

FAST-MOVING events, decisively grasped with skill, ingenuity and vim should hold dramatic moments as well as high rewards for cleverness. Keep the tempo moving in high spots until desired aims and objectives keep coming in with choice cargoes of things desired. While business, professional and financial channels may move to top goals, there are other adventures and experience in the realm of the romantic and affectional to be as graciously and generously taken advantage of. It is an auspicious time for adroit maneuvers in all pleasant and prolific directions. But keep the festivities within bound of reason and good taste. Shun show and extravagance.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of conspicuous and dramatic performance in the realm of business, finance and the professional as well as affectional life. It is time for advanced goals, pursued with skill, agility and bold adventure. It may take direct and

CHAPTER XII

Reaching the Christopher's house Meegan walked through the rear garden to the front lawn. Her footsteps were loud as she stepped up the brick steps to the porch and saw Fayne, wearing a tan sweater, sitting in a deep chair under a lamp with a book in his hand. He was up in an instant and opening the door for her.

"Hello, Meegan. Glad to see you. Come in . . ."

And the next moment with trepidation she was stepping into the large, comfortable, tastefully furnished room and Fayne was smiling with pleasure to see her. How could it be that she felt she had known him and loved him for a long time and that there was nothing of herself he did not know and share? How could it be that if she followed her true feelings it would be perfectly natural to go to him now and put her arm around him and say, Toby and Clare are in some kind of jam. I don't know what it is. But, please, put your arms around me and kiss me. Kiss me hard. Dear heaven; what was she thinking?

She gave a nervous little laugh before she said, "I didn't know you were at home during the week and I thought . . ."

"I'm not usually, but I thought I'd run down tonight. Clare isn't here. She went to town to do some shopping, Miss Willoughby told me. She called and found me home and said she was on her way. Here, take off your coat and let me get you a drink."

"Oh, no . . . Thank you, no I—I really haven't the time. You see, I . . . I was on my way home when it occurred to me that . . . that there's something wrong with the lock on our door at home I suppose the door is swollen from so much rain. And I thought perhaps there'd be someone here who would help me open it. I don't seem to have the strength to do it and Toby isn't there . . . I can't get in . . . It's silly, isn't it?"

He chuckled. "Why, no, there's nothing silly about not being able to get in your own house. Usually there are a good many here. This is the first time the house has been cleaned out of people. I'll see what I can do about your lock . . ."

* * *

Providentially she had thrust her hand in her coat pocket and found the key and remembered that the door would not open easily and that Toby had cheerfully cursed it last night.

"Thank you. Don't bother with the car. I'd rather walk if you don't mind."

"Mind?" He laughed It was rich, deep, masculine laughter good to hear. "Do you mean to say that there breathes a woman who prefers walking to riding?"

"I'm afraid I do and particularly on the first clear night we've had for days."

"You don't have to rush off now, do you?"

"Yes, I must. Mother will be coming back from a movie and she hasn't a key."

"I don't believe I've met your mother."

"She wants very much to meet you."

He chuckled. "Perhaps we'll take care of that situation tonight. I'd like to meet the mother of you and Toby." Their eyes met for an instant before he said, "I'm sure she is very charming."

She felt better when they were out of the house and walking along the dark road. It had been almost too easy and she was glad now that she had not feigned illness or frivolity. Nor had she lied. But if the heavy, capricious front door opened willingly, what then?

Fayne lifted his head and looked about him.

"This is the first time I've walked here at night. I'm glad you have a stubborn lock that gets me out of the house . . . It smells good, doesn't it? The earth, the atmosphere after a good rain. Thank God the war doesn't change the natural earth cycles . . ."

Meegan said, "Before this war I used to wonder about the last one I wondered how civilians could go about their business of living. I wondered how they could go on doing the same things when so much was happening over there."

"The amazing part of it is that over there between bombs they are going about the business of living. Business as usual . . . I saw it in London . . . It made your lip feel stiffer. It made the little people grow in stature until I doubt very much there are many little people in England any more. Even the children are big people now." He turned his head and looked at her. "Don't get me started on that. I'm boringly articulate on that subject."

"But I want to know about it."

"I know you do. It surprised me to find a sheltered girl in a fashionable summer colony sensitive and curious about the people on the other side of the world How did this island produce you?"

"It didn't. I grew with it."

He looked ahead when he said, "The same kind of world that produced you produced also Clare It's uncanny but true I should have liked to know Clare as a child as you knew her . . . So this is the road to your place. You feel it in the dark, don't you?" He had strayed a few feet from the path He caught up with her "You'd make a pretty fine hunting guide. Ever been hunting?"

"With my father once He loved it. But I don't like killing things for sport. I'd rather look at them alive than dead."

He did not answer at once Then he said "That is to be expected of you. I suspect that you do most of the things that are expected of you."

"Which eliminates the interesting element of surprise."

He chuckled again. "As a matter of fact, you do surprise me. I haven't known any young American girls in years. They've either been foreigners or other men's wives. We've been abroad mainly and from what I read and heard I thought that a girl like you would talk in—what do you call it?—'jive' completely unintelligible to me and then break out in one of those new crazy dance steps." He turned his head and looked at her again and smiled. "You're not like that or aren't you typical?"

"I think you've been misinformed and that I'm quite average."

"And you think I'm impertinent."

"No. Not at all."

They walked a little way before he said, "I think you are very sweet and I know it isn't average for a girl to have spirituality in her face. And now I am impertinent . . . So that's your house. You've achieved what most people dream about, do you know that? A house on a hill that looks down on other houses."

"My father's achievement. It's the . . . the front door."

"Oh, yes, the door, of course. I forgot about it. Let me have your key."

He had a way of speaking with authority that she liked. She gave him the key and together they walked to the door. If it opened quickly and he left immediately, then Toby would not have the time he needed. Somehow she would have to make Fayne stay longer.

He put the key in the lock, turned it and then put his weight against the door. The door protested and groaned but it opened, bringing into view the telephone on the hall table, the same telephone over which Toby's voice had had that curious desperation.

"Oh, thank you," she said. "I suppose I just wasn't strong enough."

"Dry weather will fix it. I don't think you need have anything done to the lock."

MYSTERY SOLVED

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — The mystery of how Mrs. Dale Thrapp became intoxicated without leaving her jail cell today had been solved.

With the arrest of Mrs. Josephine Siverts on a conspiracy charge, officers revealed the woman confessed pouring whisky into the cell — and its occupant — through a paper funnel and a small hole in the door.

SACK DROPS FROM SKY

ALTOONA, Pa. —(U.P.)— Walter E. Piper had heard of air mail service but he was overwhelmed when a pouch of mail dropped out of the sky into his backyard in the early morning. Piper learned later that fasteners on an air mail pickup plane accidentally loosened and released the sack.

HEAT-BEATING POWDER PROVES RELIEF FOR SKIN RASHES' ITCH

Thousands have found how to beat the heat with Mexsana, formerly Mexican Heat Powder—using it to cool the burn and hot feeling of sunburn, and relieve the sting of heat rash and chafed, irritated skin. Now families everywhere are turning to this cooling soothing powder to relieve the itch and burn of simple rashes and diaper rash. Mexsana is the kind of medicated powder often recommended by specialists. Yet it costs little and you make even greater savings in the larger sizes. Always be sure to demand Mexsana.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GATORS TASTE LIKE CHICKEN

Demand For Alligator Steaks In South Greater Than Supply.

By International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, La. — "Deli- ous as the breast of chicken"— nd so filet of alligators, thus esignated, finds its way to New rleans tables today to relieve the eat shortage.

Time was when the alligator erely furnished ideas for the car- onist and a hide for luggage but ose days have gone, though per- aps not forever.

Reports from Ben Monteleone, anager of a fish market in New rleans, indicted that alligator eak is finding favor with Mme. rleans.

"We buy alligators from the swamp trappers who bring or end them to the city," he said. 'We clean and prepare them arefully and the meat, when ried, is as delicious as the reast of chicken."

The demand usually exceeds the pply, he said, possibly because ration stamps are necessary. ie flesh is taken from the sides d tail of the saurian, he ex- ined, and cut into small steaks. The market also features gar h, thought by some to be a sort second cousin to the alligator, d turtles.

"We sell a good deal of turtles, ve, at 15 and 20 cents each," cording to Monteleone. "Some e of the 'soft-shell' kind and ne of the 'snapping' variety. ther makes acceptable meat bstitutes—if you like them."

HORNS TO SOUND ALERT

READING, Pa.—(U.P.)—Air raid alerts to residents outside the siren sounding areas may be heralded by modern "Paul Reveres." The county defense council is planning to have automobile horns blast three dots and a dash—the "V" for Victory signal—to rural areas. Officials explained wiring for installation of more sirens cannot be obtained.

THIEF RETURNS $21

GRANITE CITY, Ill.—(U.P.)—At least one burglar has developed a conscience. The home of J. E. Brewer was entered recently and $21 taken from a dressser drawer. A week later, Brewer received a letter containing $21 and no explanation. The money returned was not in the same denominations as that taken.

If You Suffer From CONSTIPATION

Try This Grand Old British Medicinal Salts Now Being Made In U.S.A.

In a glass of hot water put one teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts and drink about half an hour before breakfast. 15 to 20 minutes later follow with your usual breakfast cup of hot coffee or tea. Usually within thirty minutes you get prompt and effective relief and should begin to feel bright and refreshed again.

Take only as directed. Regulate the dose for yourself as to bring about that "easy" movement such as you have long desired.

Now keep this up for 5 straight days—just see if you too don't discover why thousands have found hot water and Kruschen Salts so beneficial in relieving that constipated "out-of-sorts' headachy feeling. Get Kruschen Salts today—all drug stores. Muir's Cut Rate Drug Stores.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

AN ALLIED AIR FORCES COMMAND POST, North Africa—(By Wireless)—The resignation of Mussolini came less than a week after the Allied bombing of Rome. Until further information is available in Rome itself, the real inciting factor in his retirement can only be guessed at, but it seems probable that it can be set down as one of the most spectacular achievements of airpower.

Clapper

After the parade of American Flying Fortresses and other bombers, including low-altitude craft, over the capital of Italy in broad daylight with only minor losses, Mussolini must have recognized the portent in the sky. For portent is certainly what it seemed like over Rome a week ago. This mighty force bombing the Eternal City with only trivial resistance could spell nothing but the ultimate defeat of Italy.

The spectacular progress of the Allied forces in Sicily, especially around Palermo, where it has been largely a parade eastward for the last few days, must also have had its effect on the regime at Rome. Equally important was the eager welcome extended by the residents of captured towns in Sicily, revealing their relief that the fighting was over.

I was in Palermo less than 24 hours ago. I spent two days there, and I saw for myself the unmistakable welcome of the population as Americans came in. I arrived only a few hours after the first American troops marched into the city.

I went on from Palermo east as far as our artillery was at that time, and everywhere our group was cheered and fruit was thrown to us. I was hit in the face with a bunch of grapes—thrown as a friendly gesture, not as a missile. There was not an ugly incident of any kind all the time I was there, moving about the city and through the country and the villages. Obviously the people of Sicily cared about nothing except having the war over.

They probably feel that the Americans want nothing from Sicily. On the contrary, they all had their palms out asking for cigarets and bread—they have had a shortage of food, and no meat for five months.

Furthermore, when I saw the complete destruction of the waterfront and harbor works, with several ships blasted out of the water and lying on the docks, it was clear why the people were so glad to have the war over. A third of the population had fled away from the bombing.

On top of everything else, since the Allies' first successful landings in Sicily we have brought ashore an enormous army, fully motorized and armored, both British and American, revealing a tremendous strength plus the ability to land in on hostile shores. That must have had its effect on Rome.

Back in the states I recall it was often said there would be no military advantage in knocking Italy out of the war because the Allies could not get over the Alps. Airmen here laugh at that. They say, "give us air fields in Italy and we'll bomb Germany to her knees." The point to the Ruhr as an example of what can be done all over Germany once they get within range.

The Allied air force has just made its longest raid from North Africa—to Bologna, which is a round trip of 1500 miles, or 300 miles more than the Rome trip. The trouble is that the Ruhr is only one part of industrial Germany. But once we get deeply in—and that will be possible from England as the nights grow longer—new areas of Germany will be devastated from the air.

I don't know what our high policy will be, but I hope we stick to the unconditional surrender of Italy. I hope we accept no conditions at all, so that we can go in and use Italy the same as we have used Tunisia, as a base for pushing the war still further toward Germany. That is essential. The power of the airplane has now been demonstrated. It is the most destructive weapon ever devised, far exceeding the destructiveness of artillery. It is making war so senseless that we can well expect the airplane to be the weapon that will bring peace and security to the world. I believe that this week we are seeing the beginning of that taking place.

FOOD PICTURE BRIGHTER, SAY WFA OFFICIALS

Tell Housewives They Can Expect More Meat and Fresh Vegetables.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A war food administration spokesman today gave American housewives an encouraging report on what they'll find at the corner grocery store during August in the way of food.

This optimistic outlook followed President Roosevelt's disclosure that coffee rationing was being terminated as of today and that the American public will probably get a greatly increased allowance of sugar within a short time.

Most major food items, the WFA spokesman disclosed, will be on hand when women shoppers invade meat markets and grocery stores to buy their family beefsteaks and other commodities which have been "hard to get" most of the summer.

In an optimistic disclosure, the WFA official told housewives here's what they'll be able to buy—if they have enough ration points—next month:

Meat: An increasing supply of beef will be available, because more cattle is being moved to the packing houses. By August, the spokesman said, the bolstered beef supply will be felt by the consumers.

Butter: Not much change in supply over the July picture with the supply listed as "fairly good."

Bread: "Eat all you want," the spokesman said.

Potatoes: Surprisingly enough, the U. S. will have probably "too many" spuds from here on in, he declared. Already, in the last five weeks, the food distribution administration has purchased 5,000 carloads. In fact, the FDA doesn't know what to do with all the potatoes but some are being stored, others sold to starch plants.

Milk: The supply is on the downhill grade right now but will remain "fair" through August with the south feeling some shortage. There'll be plenty in the midwest, a slight shortage on the west coast.

Cheese: "O. K. in August," said the spokesman, with plenty to be had in most localities.

Fresh vegetables: A tremendous tomato crop nationally—so large the FDA probably will urge civilians to eat all they can and can the rest. There is expected to be plentiful supplies of carrots, cabbage and beets.

Eggs: There may be local shortages, even though from now until January more eggs will be available for civilians than in the same period last year.

BERLIN ADMITS FASCISM ALL 'PLAYED OUT'

Germans Ignorant as Rest of World on Whereabouts of Mussolini.

(By International News Service)

STOCKHOLM — An official spokesman for the German foreign office was quoted today in a dispatch from Berlin as declaring that Italian Fascism has been "played out."

The correspondent of the newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported from the German capital that the end of collaboration between Hitler and Mussolini means a great loss to the reich.

Evidence that Fascism has fallen in Italy was seen in Berlin when Italian journalists showed up at a news conference minus their Fascist insignia.

Berlin quarters admitted that stormy events took place throughout Italy Sunday night and Monday but asserted that all is now quiet in Rome.

The military government of Italy was said to be maintaining order under a firm hand and it was reported that every important public square was guarded by soldiers and police armed with guns and in some instances having tanks.

Berlin admittedly was without any more knowledge of the whereabouts of Mussolini than the rest of the world following his overthrow.

(An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Zurich quoted "reliable sources" as stating Mussolini is at his country house near Rome under strong guard but still in communication with Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio.

(Rumors about Mussolini being in critical health were said to be unfounded. According to a telephoned report from Rome all busts and pictures of Mussolini have vanished along with Fascist symbols.)

As the situation remains now no one knows whether Italy is going to turn Liberal-Democratic, Conservative or perhaps Socialist, Dagens Nyheter said. The leanings of the Italian people are varied. The new press appears to be strongly liberal and of democratic character.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—Denunciation of fascism comes glibly from such men as Henry Wallace, who use the word as a big, rugged rock to heave at all who resist their attempts to make over the American society and economy with materials imported from Europe and with the help of diligent, even pestiferous personalities steeped in European thought and tradition. Such men are displeased with this America, and the Europeans who are so influential in Washington bring only European blueprints for reform or improvement.

Pegler

Fascism, to such minds, is big business, the same big business whose managers have toiled tirelessly to achieve the colossal production of all the weapons, vehicles and vessels of war which smashed the Axis in Africa and Italy and enabled Communist Russia to save her life when her own long and secret preparations for war fell alarmingly short of sufficiency. It were odd that such men, if they were Fascists, were so enthusiastic over the task of manufacturing on a scale that Hitler and Mussolini never thought possible, and that some of them, in fact, and the sons of many of them, went to the war in person to kill Fascists.

But for big business and the devotion of its managers, the United States might be invaded by the Fascists of Germany, Italy and Japan today for the government, of which Mr. Wallace and so many others of like mind have been a part for 10 years, had concerned itself with politics, the planned exploitation of want and the impairment of industry to the neglect of the nation's fighting powers. Nor can it be said, when this marvelous production has killed fascism in Europe, permitting the Communists to substitute their equivalent of fascism in large areas, that American big business provoked the war as a means of selling its products and making profits.

These men knew there would be no profit for them or anyone else in this war and they lagged until war was upon us because Mr. Wallace's government had no plans for them and because they still remembered that their kind had been called merchants of death after the last one. They realize now, moreover, that when this one is won some great change must occur in the United States because the debt will have to be written off one way or another and not handed on to new generations and 10 million fighters will have to be absorbed back into domestic life and twice that many civilians relocated, fed and employed.

They wanted no such change in the United States for, defending the old order which had made the nation great enough to defeat armed and ruthless fascism, they were called Fascists, themselves, as though initiative, ingenuity and ability and freedom of the individual from government controls constituted fascism.

Meanwhile, however, they have seen Mr. Wallace and his regime imposing more and more of fascism or communism, for they are interchangeable in all important points like two automobiles off the same line, differing only in the radiator caps and hubs. Mr. Wallace and his school rather lean to communism without frankly advocating it.

The elements of fascism which they have introduced in the guise of reforms have been taken from the book of Lenin rather than from Mein Kampf. Yet the effect is the same and a nation which grew up and grew great far away from Europe in spirit as well as in miles has been tinkered and defaced with European devices developed for the control and the support in docile poverty of masses of people in lands where there was not enough to go around and opportunity meant only a chance to live a little above the poverty level, with the state standing over to give alms and demand obedience.

The corrupt heart of fascism is graft, cynicism, state espionage over the people and gang politics supported, in case of need, by gang violence in the streets. If Mr. Wallace will look to the record of his own regime he will find that these elements of fascism have the strength of his party. His mobs in Michigan were no gentler than Mussolini's early blackshirts but he has never been heard to disown them or disavow their insurrection nor was it in the character of this pious idealist to repudiate the political support of some of the foulest scoundrels in American history when their gangs turned out the vote in Chicago, Jersey City, Boston and Albany to elect him vice president of the United States.

Hitler and Mussolini also promised, and gave their people pensions, vacations, fixed wages, medical care and something called security against their employers.

BRIDE'S BODY FOUND ON ROAD

Police Suspect Foul Play In Mysterious Death of West Virginia Girl.

(By United Press)

BECKLEY, W. Va.—State police today continued a probe into the mysterious death of a bride of three months whose body was found on state highway 19-21 near the Raleigh-Fayette county line.

Dr. W. W. Hume, Raleigh county coroner, said he suspected violence in the death of Mrs. Maxine Hylton Greene, 19, and added that her body may have been tossed from a car. It was discovered yesterday afternoon.

Police said Mrs. Greene, whose husband, Sheldon Greene is employed in a Newcastle, Del. defense plant, was last seen alive in a Beckley bus station talking to a soldier, Roy Gwynn, who was preparing to board a bus back to his army post in the south.

Authorities said Mrs. Greene, her sister, and a girl friend had visited a roadhouse near Beckley and were returning home yesterday. They stopped at the bus station where Mrs. Greene left them to talk to the soldier. The other two girls returned to their homes at Mt. Hope.

Mrs. Greene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hylton of Mt. Hope.

Up and Down THE STREET

Rounds of applause went out to two members of the Mansfield Lions club last night at the club's weekly dinner meeting. M. W. Liston won the plaudits of fellow clubbers when he turned in a report showing the club's blind fund had been benefitted by more than $100 received through sales tax stamp collections. The latest shipment of tax stamps netted $34. Charles L. Kafer, past president, was praised for the float he designed and entered in parade at the club's international convention in Cleveland last week. The float represented a basket of flowers. It contained more than 400 roses and won a big hand all along the parade route.

One of the most nervous men in town these days is Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools. He hasn't had a good breath in several weeks and doesn't expect to get one until after Aug. 1. The reason? Teachers are allowed by law to "walk out" on their contracts until Aug. 1 and after that they must get a release from their schools boards to break the contracts. So until next Monday the county superintendent won't know just how many teachers he'll have to comb the country for.

Police Identification Officer E. C. Fuller made a "deal" yesterday with a colored prisoner at the city jail which turned out well for both of them. Unable to produce the money to pay a $10 fine and costs imposed for driving without a permit, Willie Washington, an Ashland youth, sold his 15-year-old car to Fuller for enough cash to pay the Ashlander's readt to the court and obtain his release. While Fuller didn't reveal what he paid for the car, he said he would be able to get a full return on his investment even if he had to sell the car for junk. It's in running order, however, and Fuller said it would come in handy for driving to the police Victory garden north of the city.

JONES FACING NEW CHALLENGE

Central Committeemen Asked To Solicit Resignation For Lack of 'Gravy.'

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The leadership of State Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Darrell S. Jones faced a new challenge today.

Joseph M. Sullivan state central committeeman from Springfield, said he had sent appeals to fellow committeemen asking them to solicit Jones' resignation "for the good of the party."

Sullivan previously called for a committee meeting to discuss whether to dismiss Jones for asserted failure to obtain federal patronage for Ohio Democrats. He changed his tactics today, however, after being advised by State Central Committee Chairman Al Horstman of Dayton that the committee was without power to oust Jones.

Horstman said Jones could not be replaced before expiration of his term in May, 1944, unless he resigned voluntarily.

Horstman said Jones, who assumed the executive committee chairmanship after being appointed by John McSweeney to manage his 1942 campaign for governor, had given no indication he intended to quit.

Sullivan indicated he would ask Horstman to call the central committee into session within 30 days to consider a proposal making the central committee chairman automatically the head of the executive committee in the future.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who has accused Jones of failing to produce enough federal jobs for the party faithful in Ohio, has announced plans for a convention of party leaders late in August to consider the patronage question.

ON BROADWAY-- By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Note: The greatest reporter I have ever worked with or against is Jim Kilgallen of INS. I asked him to do a column on any favorite topic—and he certainly did!—D. K.)

James L. Kilgallen Says—

I was on a Chicago newspaper back in the pegtop trouser days when they phoned me from home that "It's a girl." A copy reader friend asked me what we were going to name the baby and I said "Dorothy." He dashed off a jingle to the effect that Dorothy meant "a gift from Heaven" and it got in the paper. Thus it was that "The Voice of Broadway" broke into print the day she was born.

At the age of two, Dorothy saw her first newspaper office, the Laramie (Wyo.) Daily Boomerang. I had become the editor. She gave the place a poker look but seemed impressed by my typewriter.

I was managing editor of the Indianapolis Daily Times when Dorothy was in first grade, and it was in that town she saw her first "type louse." That's one of those composing room jokes. You look at a metal form, (a page of type), and one of the printers clicks two pieces of type together, squirting type-cleaning fluid into your eyes. She just blinked.

Dorothy first saw Broadway when she was nine. I had decided to give the big town a journalistic try. She liked the lights—still does.

We gave Dorothy a portable typewriter for a birthday present. She was a Ramon Novarro movie fan and one day a critic on the Brooklyn Eagle wrote a piece blasting her idol. Dorothy wrote an indignant half column, signed it Dorothy Laurington, and darned if it didn't show up, as written in the Eagle. Before I knew it Dorothy was writing pieces on the high school paper.

After her graduation, she went to the College of New Rochelle. Coming out for her first vacation she showed up at the INS office at the World building and insisted she wanted "a newspaper job." I took her over to the New York Evening Journal and she went to work. She was an unsophisticated 17.

I asked the hard-boiled city editor to show her no favors, because I hoped to discourage her, I felt one newspaper person was enough in the family. They shot her around to the morgues, to police stations, to the slums. They gave her "the business."

Imagine my surprise (and secret pleasure) when, a fortnight after she joined the staff she made Page 1 under her own by-line. I had never heard of a by-line writer at 17.
